

I AM THAT...

Have you ever looked at other people and realized that they were just other versions of you?

I once was on vacation with my wife; we were at a resort called Odell Lake. I was sitting on the deck and before me in the distance were hills and valleys, also mountains. As I gazed on at the scene before me I suddenly had the deep realization that the hills and valleys and mountains I was observing were extensions of what I was.

When Jesus Christ said, "I and the father are one" he spoke not from the human consciousness. There is only one in existence and we all are that ONE manifesting as many forms. No human mind can ever know what God the Absolute is. However we do know whatever it is, that men call God, we would have to be that. Whatever God is, I am. All sound minds have seen this. To believe in a god as separate from creation, is an insane idea. I make no moral judgment here, only an observation.

There is nothing amiss in all of creation, but everything's doing exactly what it was designed to do. There is no imperfection anywhere. There is no such thing as perfect as everything is constantly changing and that is perfection in itself because it is the nature of the Absolute. These are teachings that Jesus would have taught a selective few who were ready to hear them. Man is lost only in the sense that he has forgotten what he knows on a deeper level.

As an evolving soul, I wear many masks. The mask I wear today is the one that's known as Ron Sigler. That is not who I am. God is my Father and I've never had another. My Father and I are not two, but one! I have forgotten therefore I ignorantly squander my inheritance. There is no judgment! There is no God who judges, save the form God takes as man. As my memory returns all judgment will fall by the wayside. As I think, I create my own reality. No one else can create for me; I alone create all experience that comes into my life..

All of humanity is different versions of what I am. Whatever I can conceive in the mind, I am that.
