

THE TRUTH WE SEEK...

There are many attending church that are confused. They do all they can to live up to the standards they have been taught that was supposed to bring them into that “peace that passes all understanding”. Yet, nothing has really yielded the fruit they have been told it would. I also struggled for many years all the while wondering when God was going to honor my efforts and grant me the love and peace I experienced at the time of my conversion and had somehow slipped away since then.

There are many attending the church of their choice today for various reasons. Those that are seeking the truth that Jesus said would make them free will never find the freedom that the truth brings them inside the four walls of any building. The truth we all seek is within each of us and it will never be found anywhere else. Truth and that kingdom we seek are both one and the same and again, it will never be found anywhere but within us.

All who are yearning to find this truth will sooner or later look only within for validation as to whether what they understand as truth is the truth or not. If you are hungry for that which frees you from all other opinions you must learn to go within and hear what your heart will tell you. You will begin to taste your freedom when you learn to listen to your own heart.

For it is only there, where the Christ Energy dwells and it is only there, where you will be satisfied in what you are taught. We are open to listen to what others say but for the validation we check within. Very soon you don't even need to spend any time waiting for that validation. You will usually have it immediately upon hearing a message or reading a post. Once you grow accustomed to hearing the voice of your shepherd you will recognize it as soon as it speaks your own intuition is the voice and it's the only validation you need..

You will then identify with what the shepherd spoke through the lips of Jesus in John chapter 10 when he said... “My sheep know me and they know my voice and they know not the voice of strangers”. John also wrote... “Ye have an anointing and ye know all things”... he went on to say that the anointing we have is truth and no lie and that it would teach us all things. “Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, come learn of me and I will give you rest”. This one who is our truth can be found only within our heart.
