

THE WORD OF GOD...

Once a certain degree of remembrance concerning who I am returns all judging what my ego does or doesn't do stops. When I stop judging me, I will also stop judging others for the same reason. That reason will be because my eyes have been opened to see and my ears opened to hear what spirit would reveal to me, so as to give me that which I need to be of assistance in the ascension of the planet. spirit would have all light workers come to understand that to focus on any third density consciousness that still clings to them is to engage in resistance and that any form of resistance only serves to give power to the thing resisted.

Anyone who is well versed in the New Testament scriptures could readily show you that according to the purest form of the Christian gospel, all judgment was once and for all time dealt with at Calvary. This concept is no different than many others in that because the scriptures have been so manipulated and tampered with, others could easily bring forth scriptures from the same New Testament to prove you totally wrong. This is the result of a well thought of plan that was put into place many years ago by the dark ones for the purpose of control. The plan was to brainwash the Christians into believing that every word of scripture is the infallible word of God.

Many are awaking up today to the fact that the only true "Word of God" is that which comes from within their own being. They have come to a deep realization that God is within them, and that this God is their very own being at a deeper level of their consciousness. They are beginning to understand that every time they go to this Holy place within them, they come away with more of Gods essence mingled with their surface consciousness, and as a result find their discernment sharpened a little more. They are experiencing that the holy place in the tabernacle was only a type, a shadow of the real that the real Holy place is and has always been deep within their own consciousness.

They have learned that the meaning of the word holy is not "sinless", but "separate" and that the light that is now coming to them is revealing things to eradicate all sin consciousness from their conscience that was created from the twisted teachings of a fallen religion. There is no judgment for the past that programmed them, for they now know that their past has brought them to where they are today and has equipped them with wisdom that enables them to reach out to all seeking ones who are struggling and to break the bread for them. For those who struggle, it is difficult for me to help if I've never walked where you are walking now.

I cannot give what I do not have. It is for this reason that many of us go to this holiest of all that resides so very deep within us all. We go there to for the infusing of the heavenly radium, to obtain all the powders of the merchant. {Song of Solomon} and to shout from the rooftops that you can go there as well. Actually, if we can succeed in creating the desire in you to visit there we have done a great service to you because until one learns to go within their own heart and wait for their connection to be made, until they develop the habit of entering that place within them they will be tossed to and fro with others opinions as to this or that.

You will know if the connection is being made from this getting quiet before the presence... when you feel a gentle peace from the practice. Nothing earth shaking, nothing extra spectacular, just a subtle peace. It will likely seem so normal that your mind may question the practice. It's well to remember that in spending any quality time with your higher power if there's any problem given you in it, it will no doubt be the ego which has not as yet been brought into submission to your spirit, and that is a job for spirit and never your responsibility. I am reminded of a verse in Jeremiah it says... "Can a leopard change its spots or an Ethiopian the color of his skin? The obvious answer is no, and the implication ... that the Creator can.

The point I would make in all of this is that Gods word only comes from within us. In the past, we unwittingly traded our inner guide for a book. This has been the cause of much division within the believers. We lost our way for awhile it would seem as we tried to follow a book that was full of inconsistencies. This is because we failed to "rightly divide the word of truth". This is not a possibility to me unless I've come to learn of the heart of God. Once I know Gods true nature is Love, and the true meaning of that, there is no way for me to be able to "rightly divide it. We have attempted to come to the knowledge of the truth through a book. That is not a possibility.

There is no way to truly come to know the true nature of God except it be revealed to you by God alone. All true knowledge comes from within me and never from any outside source. I am Spirit; I create and indwell all of creation. As an ego, I am a soul that lives in a body. In terms of absolute truth, these three are one. As one of many souls, my Father is Spirit, and is my very Being. So the Father of all creation dwells at the deepest level of my consciousness. It is accessible. The only veil is the mind that has been programmed to duality or third density consciousness. This is why I say that this mind will be my only hindrance in the matter of learning to go within when I first begin to go there.

I am aware that many if not all who post on this board are old hands at going within and touching the presence. That is obvious from your posts. This was not written with you guys in view. It was for some who do not post here, but who are struggling in an attempt to understand what to them is "New age" it was to encourage them in the practice of going within themselves and finding their truth there. It was for the many casualties that the church has created in hopes that by what I have posted here would be a spark that might ignite them to find the Shepherd within them as opposed to all that's coming from without in these days.
