

TWO NATURES MINGLING...

The new earth will be populated with a divine hybrid race. This new race will be one where the sensual has merged and mingled with the spiritual. In other words, man is becoming fully divine and God is becoming fully human and the two natures that have merged and mingled into one all new consciousness will fully express the all new consciousness on the earth. This is as I see it, what the pure new consciousness will be. Because consciousness has been fragmented as a result of the explosion at the beginning of creation as we know it, we have divided creation into basically two categories.

For example, good and evil, spiritual and sensual etc. If Creative Energy had not have wanted to experience the “sensual” creation would have been pointless. Man is a five f sense being for that purpose. To taste and know and experience the “sensual”.

Religion has been used as a decoy to distract man from experiencing all of that which he is here to experience. Most of the sincere souls on earth today who seek to learn more truth so they might experience the peace they look for, have no idea how far down the rabbit hole goes. I speak here of the influence that religion still has upon the whole planet.

Religion is an excellent tool for teaching me what not to do as well as what God is not. The younger generation sees through religions unreality far easier then the older generation. In this age religion is being revealed as no longer serving the best interests of society. I get e-mails from people who show the president at government functions. In these pictures they are playing the national anthem. All are saluting the American flag. Obama is not. This they use against him and that is understandable to those who do not understand. There are things concerning what wars have always been about that most of earth's population is ignorant of. Some who know these things see the flag as an emblem of murder and control. it has nothing to do with being for or against our young men of the armed forces. The president supports our troops but not the war. I would guess he doesn't honor the flag because for him it represents something all together different then what it represents to most. We are far to eager to judge by appearances and that is a mistake.

I'll go on... It was not the Romans that murdered the Master Jesus. Nor was it the religious people of his day who screamed “crucify him.” It was the global elites influence over religion that was behind those who screamed crucify him that was the true motivation. They are still with us today and they have corrupted every religion on earth for the purpose of controlling the masses. They have drugged the masses using the media to name one of many tools they use of which they have full control. Many today are waking up to this control and when a certain number have awakened their control and mass manipulation will be over. The light is mingling with the darkness in many minds today. This is synonymous with the Christ consciousness coming to earth and setting up its kingdom. This will not be a militant kingdom but a kingdom of peace and good will to all men. This mingling of light and dark will result in the light obliterating all darkness as it takes up residence in the hearts of men.
