

WHEN I AM PRESENT THERE IS NO JUDGMENT...

Last night I did something in my absence. Today it was the same thing. Have you ever done something in your absence? I'll put it way another way. Have you ever done something when you were not present? Whenever I realize I've operated strictly from the ego level I consider it doing something unconsciously or doing something when I'm not consciousness. Last night I sent an e-mail to a friend that had spiritual content without reading it myself first. Then after sending it I went back to finish reading it and hit some areas on the website that I was not certain that I agreed with.

Then I sent a second e-mail indicating that I questioned the spiritual truth of the first. Sending the first one without reading it all myself first, was not a real keen idea. Questioning the spiritual value of it after I read it was ok. Sending a following e-mail that indicated I questioned what I had previously sent was done in my absence. In other words when I do anything letting ego take the lead, this is always done in my absence. We hear some telling us in these days to stay present. I was not checked for my opinion of the spiritual content but for passing on my less the neutral opinion to the friend. Later today I was checked for my opinion in this particular case.

Today a coworker got me riled. She didn't know it but I knew it, and for some time my anger was present. I was not, but it was. Today, if we are listening and watching for light on our path it will be given. Today is a new day. It's a day of profound enlightenment. Many are very much aware that in these days the light is exposing us whenever we act out of... or contrary to our true nature. Any word, any action, any thought that is contrary to love will be exposed if we desire it and have in one way or another asked for the light to visit us and shine to light up our path.

Your true nature, your real identity, is that of the one who animates your body, especially when you are present. Whenever I'm present I live and move in love. Very few of us walk in the full consciousness of who we are for any real length of time. We walk in semi consciousness, we are present to a degree but so also is the old man. He's the one who surfaces every now and then. In these days however, this one is being exposed as the new day dawns and I begin to grasp the truth concerning my true identity. I am not to judge this old sleeping one, just observe him.

If the one that I am is being revealed to me I will know that I am one with the creator who is Love and that love has no judgment anywhere in its nature. When this Love becomes lost in man, only then has judgment come in. It has no place in my true identity. When love is not present, then judgment is never very far away. I am pure love. This is my nature. My nature was never sinful. There is no such thing as a sinful nature. That lie was invented as a means to control me. It creates guilt which was the purpose for the lie.

There are mistakes that a man makes as a result of becoming lost to his real Being. Every mistake is an opportunity for learning his true identity. Whenever I do anything by thought, word, or deed, that is contrary to love's nature it only means I was not present as it was executed. When I am present I never judge. I observe, I acknowledge, I never judge. When I pass over into the land of light, there will be a judgment. The judge will be me alone, and I shall then review my last life cycle and make an evaluation. It is I who will do this no one else. Everything I've ever thought or did will be there for me to review.

Every mistake I've ever made, every unloving thought I've ever thought as well as every loving act I've ever did will be open for me to review. I will then make my selection of my next parents based on my evaluation of my recent life cycle. The parents I choose will be in terms of which ones would most likely provide me with the life I will need to expand more in the total nature of All That Is and to correct certain areas within me. With each life cycle there is opportunity for more expansion in Love and everything that this entails. It is written... "Judge nothing before the time". In this third density world I cannot know my own heart unless the light exposes what needs exposed, much less anyone elses.

How then could I hope to judge the actions of another? I may discern the attitude of a brother without going contrary to love, and in this, I would be present in the action. But to pass judgment I violate that which I am and whatever judges falls under its own judgment. That which I am never judges another. It is when the old life is operating that judging is often present. When judging is present

Its proof that I am not, for I cannot judge for my vision is single. There is no darkness in me, nor am I able to see it in one of my members. When I am fully present, I see only my own reflection in all that is.

The old term was "Walk in the spirit". Today it is "Stay in the present". If I do not, the old man will. If he does, he does, and there's no condemnation. Remember... no one will judge you but you. The judgment you execute in between lives is never of a punitive nature. It is strictly for tuning up your potential for greater expansion in wisdom, knowledge, love, and All That Is. Over there, you will not have a dual mentality that impedes your judgment. You will see clearly the areas you desire to work on. so ease up, be easy on you and stay present.
