DEDICATION

This is written for all who struggle within their being, wondering why they feel unfulfilled. Who feel there must be more, something is lacking from their human experience.

Why do traditional teachings leave one feeling empty and bored, restless and unsatisfied. What's with all these rules to follow? Why are we programmed to fear God if He is Love? If Jesus was a success, why do I still struggle with unwanted passions and desires? Where is the freedom that I know is available to me?

Your feelings are not wrong. Your questioning is valid. There is so much more that we have not been told.

Don't just think outside of the box, throw it away! If you are a serious seeker of truth, it time to get real with yourself and Source/God.

If you are comfortable in your current spiritual place of existence, you may not want to read this. You will only find fault with most things that are said. It will likely irritate and aggravate you. If you are content, why would you intentionally stir yourself up?

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I am deeply indebted to several people for their loving assistance in the production of this, the first book in a series of three.

Serenity Alexander, Don Udseth, Laura Fifield, and Bill Skinner for their input and tireless efforts of assistance and feedback. Gary and Vicki Hyndman for their support and continuous validation. Ann Broadbent for her editing efforts. Not to be left out are Frank and Ruth Hayward for their steady and relentless input into my daily life.

I must mention Gary and Carol Sigler, of Sun City, AZ. They have been a solid mainstay in my world for more than twenty years, even allowing me to use a room in their home for a couple of months when I was down on my luck. Gary has always been one to stretch me over and over again. He is a pioneer in the modern world of classic Christian Spiritually. Always striving for more freedom and the ability to share his insight. Thank you both for being the rock stars that you are!

Lastly to the Wingmaker Council for always providing insight and wisdom to your little brother. Thanks to all of you. You guys ROCK!

PREFACE

It does not take a brain surgeon to figure out every religion, belief system, and Evangelist is trying to sell you their version of God, custom tailored to fit their own ideas and precepts (while being certain they are right), designed to reel you into being their parishioners. Crystal Cathedrals are expensive to build and maintain. And we all know that God is broke, right?

I am not trying to sell you anything. On the contrary, I am hoping to interest you in riding along with me (on your own horse, of course) as we roll up our sleeves and make a concentrated effort to sort out the horse pucky from the good stuff, the facts from the fiction, the truths from the wholesale caca pooh pooh that is all too prevalent in the world of religions.

The true purpose in my mind is to find out who the real God is, what are He/She/They all about, what do they want from us, why are we here on this rock, and what is the point of this experience we call life?

WHO GOD IS NOT

I find no joy in causing others to feel frustrated or hurt. Sometimes it can happen though. If during the course of reading this, you find yourself feeling angered and frustrated at me, try and remember our goal is to understand who the real God is. Once a person is secure in who they are, they are able to listen with an open mind to other ways of thinking without feeling threatened.

I choose to hold nothing sacred, no subject is off limits, all restrictions are removed along with the blinders that were unknowingly forced on us! I am convinced in my core being that God is Truth, God is Pure Love, Unconditional Love, Love that knows no bounds, Love that would never hurt anyone.

This 'knowing' is much different than saying, "I believe." "Belief" is a theory as opposed to 'knowing,' which is a truth in your experience. I think most of us can agree to this. All religions I am aware of seem to agree that God is some combination of truth and love, but not all present a harmless and caring God.

Wayne Surbrook

You would do well to realize that one person's truth is not necessarily another ones. Brings to mind the old image of a coffee cup sitting on a table. One side has a handle on it and the opposite side does not.

If you are viewing the cup from the side with the handle, then to say the cup has a handle on it is truth to you. If someone else is looking at it from the other side, that is not a truth to them. Wars have been fought over these kinds of mentalities.

Now if a person where to look at the cup from both sides, then they would have insight into what the cup looked like completely. They were both right. As a man thinks, so is he. Religion would build a church right here. The Whole Cup Fellowship. They would also have missed the point completely. The cup is not the issue, the contents are... It is what is inside that matters, the cup is irrelevant.

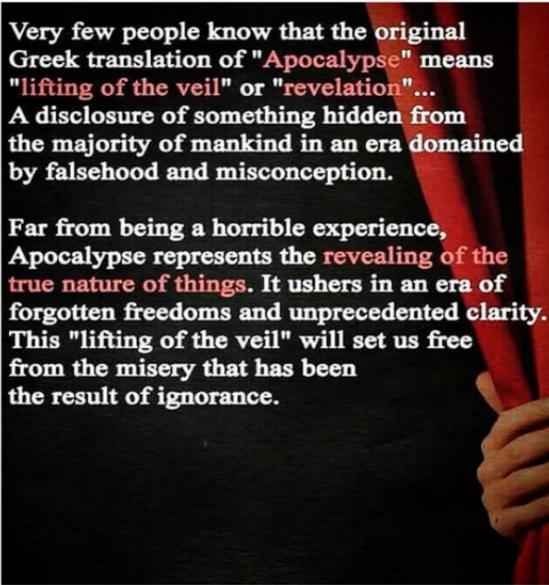

Our knowings are based on our experiences. For example, thousands upon thousands of people have been interviewed about their Near Death Experiences. All have expressed having felt love like never before.

WHO GOD IS NOT

Not one ever reported that God was a mean tyrant that was going to punish them for anything. In fact, they share a common thread of a need to forgive themselves as compared to feeling a need to be forgiven.

Thanks for joining me on this adventure. We may have to slaughter a few sacred cows from our herd of beliefs before we are done.

There is nothing to get uptight about here. God or Source Energy, as I prefer to call them, is the rewarder of those who diligently seek Him/Her/Them.

A hand is shown pulling a red curtain to the right, revealing text on a black background. The text is in white and red, with some words in red for emphasis.

Very few people know that the original Greek translation of "Apocalypse" means "lifting of the veil" or "revelation"... A disclosure of something hidden from the majority of mankind in an era domained by falsehood and misconception.

Far from being a horrible experience, Apocalypse represents the revealing of the true nature of things. It ushers in an era of forgotten freedoms and unprecedented clarity. This "lifting of the veil" will set us free from the misery that has been the result of ignorance.

FORWARD

This is written to all that have an interest in understanding who God is. This is not intended to isolate any particular group or sect, however, since I was raised in the Christian traditions, I am very familiar with the idiosyncrasies and entanglements that Christians deal with on a daily basis. In light of that, this is written with Christianity in mind, especially those who have become spiritually 'born again' or awakened, as I like to call it. Not because they are special in any way, but rather because they have such immense programming to overcome in order to be free.

Please realize that I have been where you are (IF you are having an issue that the previous statement) and I know where I am now. Did I think I was free then? Yes, of course... I had been taught that I was.

Do I still think that I was free as I look back from where I am now? No Way, Jose! Not even close. I used to be an assistant Pastor of an Assembly of God church, I get it.

Understand that preachers kid's see things different than most people do. They have seen it all. Hypocrisy and big ego's are rampant in the church system. Please try not to be defensive, but if you find yourself in this space, you may have a hard time hearing this discussion. I always take things that appear to be 'out there' and put them on a shelf. Sometimes if I ponder them awhile, I can understand what is being said. Read on if you are genuine 'truth seeker'.

I experienced my initial transformation (awakening, born again experience) at the ripe old age of four, all by myself. No one was 'coaching' me or 'instructing' me at the time to say the right words in the right order. Being the second of four sons, all of us being the offspring of an evangelical preacher and his wife, I was well aware of 'God' at a very young age, and of course that means that I had already sat through a ton of 'alter calls' by this time.

I 'knew' the routine quite well... repeat after me, blah blah blah. Congratulations, you now have your fire insurance in order.

My awakening was a most real experience to me. I clearly remember telling God that I could not do this alone (meaning living life) and I needed help to make it through.... so I asked Jesus to come into my heart, as my programming had taught me to do. It was very real and most wonderful. I felt confident and happy, even more so today!

As time went by, I became disgruntled and upset with my experience as a 'Christian'. Since, at that time, I was not yet aware of the difference between the God of Christianity and the Energy Source that lives in my heart, I found myself having a major conflict inside.

In his early years, my dad was a firm believer that hell fire and brimstone would certainly rain down on anyone that was not in the right place at the right time (attitude, I mean).

And of course, this posture was the result of messing up (sinning) and required that you be restored to right standing with God to 'fix it'. This could be accomplished by simply getting 'saved' again.

This restoration was available to anyone at any time, but especially on Sunday night, at the weekly 'alter call'. As usual, I would be up there bawling my eyes out, asking forgiveness for screwing up again. And as usual, I would feel clean and right afterward. And again, as usual, by Monday evening, I had 'lost' my salvation and was in deep doo doo until the next Sunday's alter call.

And of course, I must not leave out the old Wednesday night prayer service. Always followed the same format and almost always the same people were there. We would sing two or three songs from the hymnal and then there would have a time of testimony. And every week, the same people would get up and say the same things as the week before, almost on Que it seemed.

I will never forget this one sweet dear old lady who always had the same story to tell, how she had been saved 39 years ago and was so grateful that she would be spending eternity with Jesus in the great bye and bye.

Listening to the same story every week got a bit old after some time and I clearly remember telling God that unless I could have a living and real experience with 'Him', one I could be proud of and that was 'alive', then I was not interested in doing this 'routine' anymore. I also remember being very head strong about this.

Even the most devout heart will weary after years of routine, and mine was no different. By the time I had reached twelve, I had enough of this insanity! Like a schizophrenic person (two persons in one), I told God that I loved 'Him' with all my heart but if this back and forth stuff was what 'He' was all about, I wanted no more to do with 'Him'. I chose to go my own way and do my own thing (I thought) and I really did it with gusto.

Drugs... lots of drugs including alcohol in all forms. Partying, etc was great fun at the time, but later I realized that I was searching for deliverance from deep pain and frustration. At the time, it seemed like great fun on the surface.

WHO GOD IS NOT

Deep down, I was still looking for the God that I connected with as a little kid, a God that was honest, loving and accepting. Believe me when I tell you, I looked everywhere.

At twenty three years of age, after several days of almost no sleep (with the assistance of copious amount of speed), I was working like a animal, hauling hay from Imperial Valley, CA over the mountains into the Escondido-Carlsbad-Vista area with an old worn out 1947 Kenworth. I ran out of fuel sitting on the curb in Ramona, CA at three A.M. This was the first of six near death experiences that have radically reshaped my life.

Just that morning, in my great wisdom, I had come to the conclusion that God was just a fabrication of man, designed to keep people in paranoia and fear. The Clergy would work people for money in exchange for promises of eternal salvation. This was all done for a lousy buck. Yep, I was sure I was right... God did not exist.

In hindsight, it is very obvious to me that this thinking was coming out of my adult logical mind, not my emotional belief system.

This will make sense later, if you choose to read my second book, Return to the Ancient Paths. I am not trying to plug another book. There is just too much material to fit into one.

I now look back at these experiences and shake my head at the awesome wisdom of Source to orchestrate just the right thing at the right time. I became convinced that I was going to be sucked into hell forever (this was a bit after three A.M.) IF I did not repent on the spot for my disbelief in the existence of God. It was very very real to me.. so much that I could hardly talk to anyone for three days.

Please understand that I am not saying that I believe in a hell of any kind NOW. I am sharing what happened to me then, where I was in my belief systems THEN. Remember that Source always meets a person right where they are. It is the only way we can receive what we need to hear at the time.

Do NOT try to compare your experience with anyone's reality. Your truth is your truth, it does not have to be the same as anyone else to be true. We are ALL individuals, not drones!

Yet, we are all equal in every way. These things are just the way they are... it is what it is.

After five more near death experiences (NDE's) spanning many years, so many out of body experiences that I've lost track, and countless dreams and visions, I have finally made it to the beginning. I have finally discovered who I really AM or should I say that I AM beginning to understand who Source is.

I KNOW who I AM in my inner being, in my heart of hearts. I experience more joy on a daily basis than most people ever experience in a lifetime, and it just keeps getting better. I KNOW that I AM a spiritual being having a human experience, that I AM a unique expression of Source Energy, experiencing limitation.

Once again, returning to limitlessness while still living and breathing in a human body. It is the destiny of all genuine truth seekers. Some call it the manifestation of the Sons of God.

I hope this little piece of my background will encourage you to read on. I pray that you too, will discover who Source is and who you really are.

*...and [that you may come] to know [practically, through personal experience] the love of Christ which far surpasses [mere] knowledge [without experience], that you may be filled up [throughout your being] to all the fullness of God [so that you may have the richest experience of God's presence in your lives, completely filled and flooded with God Himself]. **

LIGHT YEARS APART

Yes, I believe in salvation, in that we surrender intellect to spirit and come to forgiveness of ourselves and a belief that the old life can be put behind, in which we only operated in the intellectual and perceived realm.

– Kris Korecki Baker

I want to say something before we get started on this journey. I am not trying to be arrogant, although some will likely accuse me of that. It is very easy to confuse arrogance with confidence. Also, please understand I am not talking down to anyone. At times, it may seem like it, but it is not my intent. We are all equal, no one is above another. At this moment in time, I may be more awakened than you, I may have more insight. This is all about the NOW, that is all there is... the NOW. It means and implies nothing more or less. Tomorrow I will know more than today. Depending on how fast you choose to shift your perspective, by next week, you may be more awakened than I.

Again, this is not about some competition, we are not in a race. I love it when we can provoke each other to gain more insight and understanding into the perceived mysteries of our NOW.

I am not referring to facts the mind can memorize. I am talking about knowings of the Multiverse, of the whys and what-fores that help define the nature of Source. I am sure there are those out there (and I used to be one of them) that will try and use their Bible to prove what I am saying is wrong. All of us use the tools that we have at our disposal.

I was in traditional Christianity for some twenty nine years or so before I started having serious wake up calls. I have studied the Bible extensively. I wore out four sets of Bible tapes driving truck back and forth between the Northwest and Southern California. I don't know how many Bibles I used up until pages literally fell out of them. I still have some excellent study books that break down the Greek language into different verb and noun tenses.

Of course that doesn't work for Hebrew. They didn't have punctuation in ancient times. But the Hebrew study books I do have are outstanding. Point being that I do understand the traditional ways of thinking regarding the position of theological Christianity.

All that to say, where I am now is light years apart from that mentality. I am here as a result of searching for truth, asking Source to bring light into my understanding, to lift the scales from my eyes. Of course, if you are convinced that you have already achieved enlightenment, then you are probably wasting your time reading this.

Please allow me to explain a simple fact of life. If you think you have the qualifications to show me I am wrong, based on your Christian concepts and the Bible, you simply don't.

It doesn't matter if you are educated in the best universities or seminaries. You are not where I am now in your concepts so there is no way you are qualified to make a judgment between the two different mindsets. Remember the coffee cup analogy from the Preface? I see the cup from both sides. It is just a cup. The contents? Now that is a bird of a different color.

I have been where you are, but you have not been where I am. If where I am now is wrong, I could go back where you are. Considering the level of joy and peace I live in every day, believe me when I say there is no way I would. Do you see what I am saying? I am not angry or even irritated about it. It just is what it is.

There are as many paths to enlightenment as there are people on the planet, because it is an 'inside' job. Each of us are unique and different, so your path would never work for me and mine would never work for you. No matter what, it's all good.

What a great adventure it is to search for and find our Source of existence. As a byproduct of this journey, we get to find out who we actually are.

We are no different than countless people who have lived before us... or are we? What makes us think we can find something different from or unique from all those who have traveled this path before us? How dare we think we are greater than or even equal to those masters of religion who have been scattered throughout our history? Degrees and Titles? The School of Hard Knocks, it is.

What is it that is going to prove to be different than what they have documented in numerous books written on this subject? Ah, So glad you asked that question. I was certainly hoping you would.

For without the desire to know Source Energy in your innermost being, this would amount to nothing more than mental masturbation and we certainly don't need anymore of that. This religious world is full of books written in this context and they never have or ever will take you any further than your finite mind can muster up.

Remember the verse: But the natural [unbelieving] man does not accept the things [the teachings and revelations] of the Spirit of God, for they are foolishness [absurd and illogical] to him; and he is incapable of understanding them, because they are spiritually discerned and appreciated, [and he is unqualified to judge spiritual matters]. 1 Corinthians 2:14*

It is clearly saying the natural mind is not capable of and cannot understand the things of the spirit.

* Amplified Bible (AMP) Copyright © 2015 by The Lockman Foundation, La Habra, CA 90631. All rights reserved.

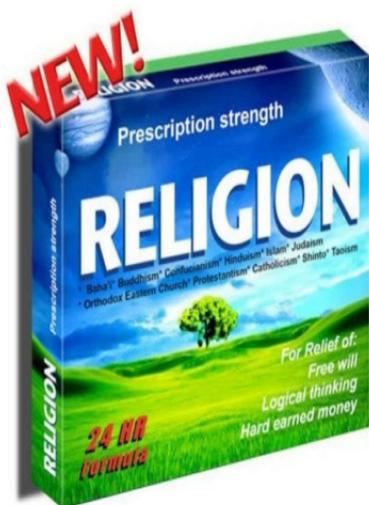

I feel that it is necessary to provide some understanding here to bring some clarity to what can be a very confusing subject. By including some verses here, I am attempting to show you some of the trail Source used to guide me into deeper things of spirit. Perhaps a bit more background would be helpful here.

I was called by Source to be a prophet in 1979. I didn't even know that prophets were still around at that time. At the point of this calling, I was very comfortable in my 'Christian Position,' firmly grounded in the Assembly of God church system as an assistant pastor. I was convinced I was going to heaven (had my fire insurance) and would share some white cumulus clouds with the Angels as we strummed our guitars and watched the river of life flow peacefully by... yawn... Sarcasm intended.

This "calling" was a very real and powerful experience. I remember telling Source that I thought being a prophet was a lousy idea, that nobody liked those kinds of people and I really wasn't interested in doing that. I was promptly told I was not being asked, I was being told. In other words, this was not open for discussion! Yikes!

Then I was shown the Bible in its' entirety. I had no understanding in my mind of what I was shown, I just knew I understood it and my immediate reaction was no one would believe this.... the response was ... doesn't matter if they believe it or not, it is what it is. In other words, the interpretation I was shown did not need anyone's approval to be valid. Add to the situation, I did not know in my mind what that interpretation was.

I have been shown countless concepts and ideas over the years, all of them helping me to restructure my perceptions and ideas of the Universes and how it all works. The way Source thinks and sees things, how Source feels about people and all of creation. A lot of it did not and still does not agree with the teachings of Modern Christianity and their interpretation of the Bible.

Caution: Religion should always be taken with a grain of salt
Side effects may include: Brainwashing, Terrorism, Racism, Sexism, Child Abuse, Murder, Suicide, Denial, Hypocrisy, and constipation.

So which one do you think I went and still go with? Yep, it is not traditional thinking that unlocks the keys to the kingdom.

If you keep on doing what you have always done, you will keep on getting what you have always got.

Unknown author

You cannot solve a problem with the same mindset that created it.

Albert Einstein

This has been a long, drawn out life time of instruction by Source. A good deal of it has been alone, a one-on-one situation with Them. Many advanced students of life have asked me who I studied under. I tend to smile and say “just Source.” My stuff comes directly from Source Energy, usually followed by reading books and listening to others sharing their experiences. These always seem to validate what I have been taught. I have learned and am always continuing to learn to trust my Inner Voice, my Higher Self, Source that lives in me and IS ME. Don't choke... you will understand if you choose to continue.

I have long since lost all fear of deception, it simply does not exist in my being. I had another experience where I found myself standing beside Jesus and we were standing before a throne, upon which God, Father, Source Energy sat.

Now if you were to ask me how did I know 'He' was sitting? Then I would say I just 'knew' it, as I could not 'see' 'Him' there. That was the way that I related to Source in those days, as a male father figure.

Jesus said to me as he pointed to the Father, "This is your Father." The Father pointed to Jesus and said to me, "this is your brother." Wow! Abra Kadabra... Magik was happening. Magic is an illusion... whereas Magik is my word for the way that Spirit works. This energy is amazing. You really can't define it or package it, hold it or throw it... it is what everything is made of... Life Force Energy, the glue that makes life stick together. Source Energy, All That Is, The Nameless Ones, The Multiverse, etc. are all different ways of describing it.

At that point, my entire relationship with Jesus changed from my Savior to my Brother. I knew I was Family and I could never be deceived or separated from Them again. It was and is so wonderful to live in this space all the time. Consequently I listen to my heart, my intuition first and then my mind rather than the other way around. I should say that I try to do this. I am very human and don't always get it right the first time.

You see, religion is and has been built upon the idea that one can 'understand' God by learning about God. And of course, the concepts of God we have been taught have come straight out of the Bible, which we, again, were taught was the total, infallible, absolute Word of God! Never to be questioned, nor was the interpretation.

Study to show thyself approved... means one can be disapproved if you don't study. I can be rejected by Source? Are you kidding me? How could that be? No Way. I KNOW I am Family and They would NEVER disown me! If you will look in your heart, you will see the same thing is true.

Over a period of time, you can easily see this experience of 'being family' would began to radically affect ones thinking. I began to question and sometimes even argue with my 'teachers,' as in pastors and elders. One could ask the question of me: So how was this working out for you, Wayne? Yea, right. How many ways can you spell ... NOT! Of course, these conflicts and the questioning of authority only continued to be more frequent and intense. In hindsight, it is easy to see it was inevitable, something had to give.

There are none so blind as those who will not see.

John Heywood, 1546

This reminds me of the old story of what happens when an unstoppable force collides with an immovable object, something has to give .... and something did. My natural mind, my sense and reason did. Source Energy, my intuition, who I really am, WON out over their belittling and demeaning arguments.

Once the light shines into the dark closet, the contents are exposed and cannot be hidden any more.

Of course this happened to the utter disgust of my old teachers, who no longer wanted anything to do with me, a person with a reprobate mind! So discard me, they did.. just the way they had been taught to do by two thousand year old ideas of what being a religious person was supposed to be.

It certainly looked and felt like unconditional love to me, NOT!

Did it bother me? You bet it did, as I really wanted to be part of the church 'family.' I had many friends who were very involved in the church and now, they no longer wanted me around either. We all like to belong somewhere or to something.

The experience of knowing that I belonged to my real family (Source) was so strong in me, it over rode my human desires to be part of the church. One might ask why was I shown this and not the church leaders? What made me 'special?'

Perhaps it is part of the 'prophetic calling,' but I think it is more likely because of the strong desire I have had since I was a small boy to 'know God," to really KNOW GOD.

I most assuredly am not special or privileged in any way, actually quite the opposite, as I have become very broken. In other words, my ego identity no longer runs the show here. Who I really AM is the leader in my world, and it works in beautiful harmony with my ego mind.

The land of the 'sense and reason realm' teaches us we are humans trying to learn how to be spiritual, as opposed to those who live in the realm of spirit, who say we are spiritual beings having a human experience.

*Set your mind and keep focused habitually on the things above [the heavenly things], not on things that are on the earth [which have only temporal value]. Colossians 3:2 **

This can seem very convoluted and confusing to a person. Wait, are you quoting the Bible and then telling me to ignore it? Come on dude...

Many teachers say the ego is, at the very best, not good and at the very least, pure evil and needs to be discarded. Got news for you boyz and girlz... if you succeed in doing that, you will not be resident in your body any longer. You cannot live without your ego, at least not in a human body on this rock. Source never has and never will make any junk.

\ Amplified Bible (AMP) Copyright © 2015 by The Lockman Foundation, La Habra, CA 90631. All rights reserved.*

Now, in defense of these 'teachers, pastors and elders'... They, like their 'teachers, pastors, and elders' had been taught these 'truths' using the sources of information they had.

This was primarily the Bible, along with any 'Sacred' writings their particular denomination used and approved of. So, did their rejection of me affect my outlook and attitude? Of course it did, and the emotional pain pushed me into Source with everything I had. I ran into Source out of desperation and pain.

In hindsight, I have realized my greatest teachers were my most difficult struggles. Understanding makes it easier to be thankful for all the hardships we experience in life.

The further I ran into Source, the greater became the gulf between my old teachers and I. The division revolved around our concepts of Source. I could understand where they were 'cause I had been there and done that' but they couldn't do the same for me.

Hence... judgment and rejection, I did not measure up in their minds. It did not affect my love for them.

It did affect their love for me. It also caused me to stop hanging out with them anymore.

Can my natural mind (my ego) take credit for the understandings I received? Was it the power of my thinker that caused these 'heavy revies' to happen? No I think not. They occurred because I was and am a seeker of truth. Here is the sixty four thousand dollar question. Is your desire to have an intimate relationship with Source in your core greater than your fear of deception? Ponder that if you dare.

In today's world, we are being inundated with MISINFORMATION... we are blasted by so much 'stuff' one does not know what to believe about anything! That is the entire purpose of misinformation ... to overwhelm you with pieces of truth mixed with lies and distortions. It makes you want to throw your hands up in the air and walk away.

Why has this happened now? It seems to be more apparent all the time. Why have the manipulators, the controllers, the media started doing this? Good question!

Well, guess what? It is not something new... nope... the Bible is FULL of misinformation and so is every other religious writing out there.

For instance, we are told over and over and over again that God loves us, but then we are told if we do not do the right things and say the right words in the right order... cacapupu waits for you. Remember the song? He knows what you are thinking... he knows when your awake... he knows when you've been good or bad so be good for goodness sake. I know that this is supposed to be about Santa, but this is the understanding we also have about God.

So now you say you are more confused then ever. But wait, like the commercial says, there is more... There is enough truth in all religions to find one's way out of the swamp IF we will make the necessary effort. Here is one of the how-to keys we are given....

*11 For I know the plans and thoughts I have for you,' says the Lord, 'plans for peace and well-being and not for disaster to give you a future and a hope. 12 Then you will call on Me and you will come and pray to Me, and I will hear[your voice] and I will listen to you. 13 Then [with a deep longing] you will seek Me and require Me [as a vital necessity] and [you will] find Me when you search for Me with all your HEART. Jer 29 11-13**      emphasis is mine

Do you see it, the secret that is right there is front of you? The “HOW TO” that is the key? It is TO SEEK HIM or THEY as I put it. This is a function of the HEART, not the mind. Another wonderful source of very powerful information says we cannot discover God... we are not equipped to 'find' God, as if to say they are at a certain place we cannot access... we can only realize Source through the knowing that all things are expressions of Source, that we are all ONE! Contrary to what we have been taught... it is NOT about repeating the right words in the right order.

There is NO SEPARATION between Source and us, and there never has been. All things are from ONE source.

Amplified Bible (AMP) Copyright © 2015 by The Lockman Foundation, La Habra, CA 90631. All rights

So what triggered these things to happen to me? What did I do that was different from others?

Most of us are open to change or at least we say we are. You know, as long as it does not upset what we already think and know, right? So, what does it mean, to really be open to change?

We have inherited, what my friends and I call a “Binary Operating System” in our bodies and minds. Yes, just like an organic computer system. Binary is a system of 'on' and 'off' or “yes” and “no” that computers use to function. At the root of the discovery of the Binary System, this 'on' and 'off' thinking was called

'truth gates.' Really! In other words, it was how they originally designed it so the computer would be able to figure out what to do in a situation such as, If this, then that or if not that, then this.

Caution: Religion should always be taken with a grain of salt
Side effects may include: Brainwashing, Terrorism, Racism, Sexism, Child Abuse, Murder, Suicide, Denial, Hypocrisy, and constipation.

So what these 'truth gates' mean to us is it must be one way or the other. Right or wrong, good or evil, yes or no. We have, by default, no other choices. And so we JUDGE all things... we must, no other option...

But wait, isn't there a verse in the Bible that says NOT to judge, for if you do, you will be judged by the same values that you judged others.

Houston, we have a problem.... why are we stuck with this limitation? Where did we get this O.S. (operating system) from? Saw that question coming, didn't you?

From the old testament law of Moses, that's where! Six hundred and thirteen commands, all of them carrying the same weight of law as the ten commandments, such as not mixing different fibers of cloth together in the same garment. If you break one law, you have broken them all. So what do we do now that we see this?

How do we NOT judge if we have no other choice? In my next book, Return to the Ancient Paths, we will discuss how to upgrade your OS to a better version, one of quinary (five options) LOVE..

Back to being open or not to change. Since we have this BO System (binary operating) in place, we must first of all look at the change we are wanting and make a judgment as to whether we want it or not.

And to make matters worse, if we say OK, we must make the perceived change fit into our current concepts and perceptions (sense and reason again). But, by it's very definition, change is something different than how we think and see things in the now. Malfunction!. yep... sure it is.

For true change to really happen, we have to let go of our perceptions, concepts, and ideas of life, the Universe, God, Source, whatever. And that is where it can get downright scary for some people. So the real question really is, how badly do you want change?

That, dear ones, is what was different in my choices compared to those that 'will not see' mentioned above. The drive to expand, the drawing to the candle flame, the 'deep calling unto the deep' in me has been strong enough to make it happen. So what did I do different to have this drawing, this 'calling of the deep' be that strong in me?

Simply put... I asked for it! My wonderful third and last wife, Laura, magnificent being that she is, and I were 'waiting on the Lord' as the old saying goes... we were meditating and both felt the same question form in our minds at the same time. What do you want out of life? What do you wish to accomplish in this world?

We both opened our eyes and looked at each other (we had not spoken to each other since starting meditation) and together, in unison said, "We Want It All!" We want everything that life has to offer. All the wealth, the joy, the happiness, the fun, the wisdom, the insight, the closeness and oneness with Source, etc., and together we both heard, "Good Choice!"

Be aware that to adapt to this kind of mindset can be all but impossible to do IF you still hold the concept(s) of God that have been presented to us by the Bible. Again, this can be extremely frightening to some. If you are afraid to be real with Source, to be honest in your core, you probably can't let go. IF you still carry the perception you can be punished or rejected for any reason, this will not work. You can only do this by opening your heart to the creator. Don't worry...be happy!

So am I saying, ones' heart knowing is more important than what the Bible says? Indeed I am.

But that does not line up with the word, they say. I hear this so much by those that are stuck in their minds... I call them the 'frozen chosen.' I really feel sorry for them... trapped in fear, fear of God rejecting them and fear of the unknown.... Terribly ugly place to be... been there, done that, don't want to ever go back.

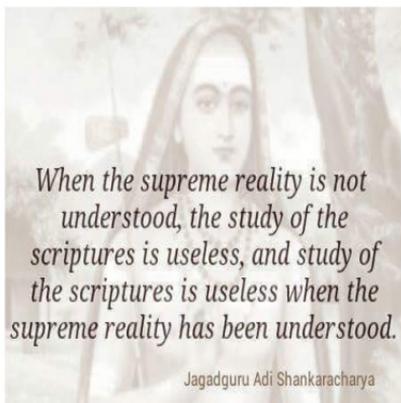

They throw out verses like.. the heart is desperately wicked, blah blah blah.... The reality is... My sheep know my voice

I have seen all manner of people who can quote the Bible from cover to cover and they are some of the most miserable finger pointing and condemning people I have ever known. Seems to me I remember another verse that says something like... You shall KNOW them by their LOVE...hummmm...

Then there are those who have been brainwashed (I was one of them) to believe that God is in total control of all things (don't worry, we will get to this part later).

If I am to change and grow, then He will make that happen. Magically, with no effort or desire on my part. Just sort of happen ... really? Well, he is God, isn't he?

No where can you find (even in the Bible) where Source rewards a person for being lazy! Even the parable about the three guys with money (talents) shows the story. One had only one talent, one had five, and the other had ten. The ones with five and ten invested it and saw a gain in their total net value. The one with only one talent (dollar) buried (protected) his, did nothing with it to improve it's value. It was taken away and given to the guy with ten talents. It was taken from him because of his laziness and given to the one who showed the most desire to improve his situation, his holdings, his state of being.

Think about it... what would happen if you met someone who really wanted to have a relationship with God or Source?

So you help them understand this heart change and they really get it.

But as soon as this happens, there is a terrible storm, a tornado of vast proportions. It wipes out all electricity and all buildings. No Bibles to read, no books to tell them how to act. Now what? Are they no longer acceptable to God because of this? Really? How are they to study to show themselves approved if they have no books or computers?

Does this demanding God taught about in church, you know the one that says if you don't toe the line, you will end in eternal damnation, somehow allow them to have a waiver until such time as they are able to read the sacred books and know how to act. Really? Can't buy it. We all know better than that.

The same book says the laws have been written upon the fleshly tablets of our hearts. It is NOT a mind fix that makes one feel connected and secure. It is an adjustment of one's heart attitude. It is an INSIDE JOB!

It is an AWAKENING of gigantic proportions. It is said "I started a good work in you and I will finish it."

Another says, “work out your salvation with fear and trembling.”

Now I am sure some of you will say my church doesn't teach that concept of God. Well, perhaps not directly, but if you embrace the teachings of the Bible, you will have some aspect of this thinking in your head.

That is, until you check with your heart space. If you have really had an awakening and not just an emotional fire insurance experience, you will sense a deep knowing in your heart that everything is all right! You just KNOW IT.

The “work” just mentioned is not talking about studying your bible. It is referring to letting go of hiding who you really are. It is addressing the need to be totally real in your innermost being. In other words, be totally honest and real with Source.

This is a great example of the difference between the heart and the head. Intellectual understanding by itself... is pretty much worthless.... but of great value when connected to your true identity.

TRUE CHANGE

It is your desire to know me as yourself that brings you to my presence so perfectly hidden from your world.

First Source Transmissions

As I shared previously, for true change to really happen, we have to let go of our perceptions, concepts, and ideas of life, the Universe, God, Source...whatever. And that is where it can get downright scary for some people. How does one let go of the only sense of reality that you know?

This really is the issue here. If the only sense of reality a person has is being human, this can be downright difficult if not impossible!

Without something else to grab on to, I'm not sure one could.

One sure way to expand your perception of existence is to create a genuine living connection to Source.

This happens in your heart of hearts, or intuition. It is ever so easy and simple to do. There may be other ways to do it I am not aware of, but I know this one works.

All you have to do is ask Source to make Himself/Herself/Itself/your Higher Self real to you. Ask to have your eyes opened to see and your ears to hear.

The idea you have to be saved from sin is an age old myth that simply is not true. This concept has put people into terrible bondage some never escape from. If one needs to be saved from anything, it would be the trap we have all been in at one point or another, being we THINK we are our ego minds and thoughts, including our body. We are so much more than this.

So the real question is, how badly do you want to change?

As I said earlier, Is your desire to have an intimate relationship with Source greater than your fear of deception?

How much do you want to become empowered, to 'wake up' from this dream we call life? It is a dream, you know. Empowered from what, you say?

From all of the petty (and some not so petty) things that bother us on a daily basis.

Emotional trauma and scaring, such as a broken heart, the loss of a loved one, rape and other abuses. Issues others may or may not be aware of, but you know what they are.

When you awaken in the wee hours of the night and there is no one else to talk to about this stuff, to reach out to... that is a hard part of this reality. We all need someone to go to, who REALLY understands US, everything about us. This is what I am talking about. That internal connection that knows and understands it all and yet never ever puts you down for any part of it.

Yes, I get it... believe me, I do. After multiple occurrences of sexual assaults, mental, emotional and physical abuse (none of which are issues in my life now) I can say if it were not for my connection to Source, I highly doubt I would be alive in a human body.

I know that sense of acceptance and it is off the chart. If you glean nothing more than this from this 'book', go for it! It is invaluable ... try it, you'll like it.

I am exposing my heart to you, being as real as it gets. There have been parts of my life I am not proud of but yet they are true. One of them is trying to commit suicide seven times. In the mid-nineties, I tried the last time and of course, failed to do so. The only reason I failed was directly due to super natural intervention.

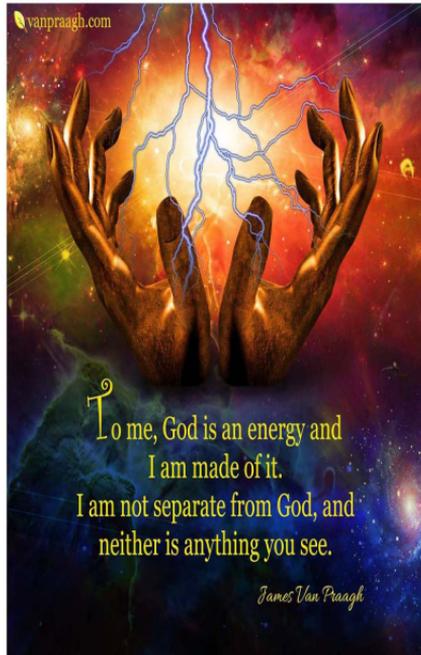

For a genuine Dick Tracy decoder ring and two Cheerios proof of purchase bar codes, I'll tell you. Gotta see the humor in things, it is the grease that keeps the world from seizing up!

I must say my willingness to share these things is not so you will say I am a great person. I am no different than any of you. It is because I have a giant desire to be truly free and unrestricted, to be and do everything I want to do and be in this world. For me, it means I must be genuine and open about the things that have made me who I am today. I was shown I can embody one who is an unlimited spiritual being, with no limitation of any kind, while still here in a human body.

I want that! I am not talking about some one other than my real self, the real me, my higher self, who I really AM.

Three A.M. on a cold winter night in central Washington. In the mountains at about four thousand feet, temperature is about twenty degrees Fahrenheit with a light breeze. Five or six inches of fresh snow everywhere. I am traveling about forty five miles an hour, drunk out of my mind and crying uncontrollably. I am on Highway Twelve, near the dam on the east end of Rimrock Lake, just west of the tunnel. No other vehicle tracks in the fresh snow.

I was aware of a weak place in the guard rail (been looking at it for a long time) that would take very little effort to go right through it.

All I wanted was to be free of the constant emotional pain that seemed like an eternal torment.

I was probably within twenty feet or so from going over the edge into the frigid water below when the vehicle simply stopped moving, instantly, no skidding or sliding, just stopped moving.

A stern voice, that felt as if it were the entire universe, spoke loudly and clearly in my inner being, saying, "Don't you ever try that again!" I was immediately and completely sober, absolutely no effects of alcohol at all. I have never had a desire to try it again. It is simply gone, like fog when the sun comes up.

Why did I try so many times to kill myself? A very reasonable question, I think. I was born with a condition called Gender Dysphoria, meaning confusion about one's gender. That is the clinical terminology, at least. I have no memories of being in this body that did not include this conflict in my being. I really didn't feel confused that much, I knew I was a female inside, the problem was simply my plumbing did not fit the real me. Plain and simple, the emotional pain and trauma from having to be someone you are not (male) was a constant torture to me. Add the shame and guilt heaped upon me by Christianity and the result is very ugly.

The only solution seemed to be suicide. If you think this is not an issue, look at these facts. The suicide rate among transgender people is a whopping 43% as opposed to 3% among 'normal' people. Even after SRS, sexual reassignment surgery, the rate is still 20%.

I am drawn to females, not males. I thought this made me gay, a lesbian. Does this make a difference in anything? I am sure that depends on who you ask! But the reality is NO, not in the least, nor does it matter to Source.

Having been raised a Christian, I believed it did until I was told by Source it did not. If it mattered to Source, then it would no longer be unconditional love, would it?

Sexual attraction issues are not issues unless you have been brain washed to think so. I have heard Christian speakers say humans are the only ones with this 'issue', which just shows their level of ignorance.

Science has proven that over three hundred (300) different species (animals) practice some form of homo-sexuality. Since Source created it all, are you still going to try and say Source thinks it is wrong?

People will say whatever they want to justify their beliefs. Is that what I am doing? If you think so, then prove me wrong. I dare you to.

You must learn to question everything.. yes, everything!

You see, Source knew my heart, inside and out. Source not only heard my cries, but felt my pain too. What few people understand is, none of us are alone in this experience of being human.

It is a co-experience with Source (your higher self) and the part of you that you have called yourself, your ego identity. This is true even if you are not aware of your true identity yet.

I was willing to let go of my concepts of life in order to escape from the pain and torture going on in my mind. This brought CHANGE in a real way to me.

It would seem wise to me for one to consider being open to change before some kind of trauma kicks your butt, because sooner or later, it will happen to every single person. It is simply called being alive on planet Earth in a human body.

The awareness of this connection to Source is not some magical formula that removes you from life experiences, but it does provide one with the best possible friends you can imagine to be right there with you through the whole thing.

The real Source Energy is so different from the religious god of the bible, they look nothing alike! Source is simply pure love, unconditional love, never leave or abandon you kind of love. Source once told me I could not displease Them. I said.. WHAT? And they said, you can't please Us either. I responded with I can't please or displease You? Their reply was, We are not human, We are unconditional love and We could never have an enemy.

Wow.... incredible..... The bible god is the opposite. That god is conditional from the get go. If you will do this, then I will do that. Etc.... over and over again, one must do something to please this irritated god.

Please understand I am NOT questioning your connection to Source even if you call that Energy God. I did too until I began to see the huge difference between the two.

The one that lives in me and is me as compared to the one in the bible that is a mean and cruel taskmaster.

If I may suggest something to you... perhaps I have already pushed your buttons with some of things I have said. Try and hang in there for awhile.. I can guarantee, if you try to keep an open mind, this will all make so much more sense when we get done. You will be happy you didn't quit.

If you decide to lay this down now, it is just fine with me. My desire and that of Source is that you have a free choice to choose. To choose whatever you wish to experience. If this threatens you in any way and you feel uncomfortable, walk away from it. You can always come back if you wish.

So it should be easy to see true change can only occur when we are truly willing to change. That is all that is required of us. How change will occur and what it will look like is not our issue or responsibility. That is Source's job.

I know it seems as if I speak of Source as someone who is removed from us as opposed to being the real me. Source is both.

Source is not limited to what has been created, He/She/Them are so much more. In our current state of limitation, we don't YET have the ability to perceive Source at that level. At some point in the future.. we will .

I think we have established that in order to accept change, one has to be willing to do so. If we cannot trust Source enough to let go of our ideas about life and God, it is likely we won't be able to embrace any significant change in our preconceptions. Of course one needs to realize if we are able to accept enlarged and amplified ideas of who Source is, then this will also change the concepts we have of ourselves.

Most of us who have been in Christianity were taught we had little or no value as a person other than to sacrifice our lives (and our money) to help others and of course to help God further His kingdom on earth. The obvious result of this programming is we have little or no value and we should always put others before ourselves, especially if the 'others' were the church leaders!

After all, they are “God's anointed” and they have the answers to guide us along our path to heaven.

We were always made aware that we did not have what it takes to walk our own path. We needed their wisdom and guidance to make sure we didn't get it wrong.

Are you beginning to see why they put verses in there like, "Your heart (intuition) is desperately wicked and you should never trust it" (paraphrased) If you start listening to your intuition (your heart, your 'knower'), then you might start to feel as if something is wrong with what they are saying.

If you begin to doubt what you are being forced fed, you might get upset. And if you get upset, you might end up leaving their church and heaven forbid, you might take other bill payers with you. That simply will not work.. period.

Please understand that I am talking about the 'SYSTEM,' not the people in it. Now am I saying they are doing this on purpose? NO I am not. Does it matter if they are doing it on purpose if the end result is the same? Nope... Motives do not over-ride actions.

They say: "You are obviously misled because you are not mature enough to listen to your own heart. And God will punish you if you do not submit to our leadership."

Have you ever heard of people being misled when they left a church?

Allow me to refresh your memory. Jim Jones was a great example. He was main line christian until he branched out on his own. He ended up taking 900 people with him as they drank poison kool aid and expired in the tropical sun. So what happened to all these people that trusted him? They died. Why? They did not listen to their own hearts. They submitted to the leadership of Jim Jones. They left their church because they believed in Jim. And they followed him to another continent because they believed in and trusted him.

Do you think they were doing what they thought was right? Of course they did. They were continuing to do what they had been taught to do. They were taught to submit to their leaders and not to think for themselves, the same thing preachers still teach today.

They use this story and many others to demonstrate that you are not mature enough to make the right decision for yourself. It MUST line up with the WORD or it is wrong!

Here we go again...trying to use the mind to discern spiritual truths.

They have never learned to listen to their intuition so what else can they do? FEAR is a HUGE force than can shut down a person.

So exactly what does it take to be mature enough? Do you have to reach the ripe old age of forty, fifty, or even sixty? Or perhaps you have to reach the age of manhood the Jewish tradition teaches, that being thirty years of age? You know, the age Jesus was when he started his ministry. Of course the Bible also teaches women are to be quiet in church and should never be teaching a man anything.

Perhaps you have to attend a Bible College and get Ordained in order to attain the wisdom to “know what to do and say.” Or does it have to do with making sure you 'think' the right way, you follow traditional ideas and concepts so you won't 'rock the boat.'

Please understand I am not attacking anyone in leadership, well, at least not anyone who is trying to do the right thing. In other words, to follow what they have been taught. I was there once myself and like most of them, I was trying to do what I had been taught was the right way to do it. I might still be there if I had not had this drive in my core being to know Source intimately.

Massive difference between knowing about God and knowing God. You can read a book about the President of a country and know all about him or her. But that and $2.25 will get you a cup of coffee.

Do you see what I am trying to say? One can only know Source intimately through their heart, their intuition. It is a realization of oneness, of connection that brings to you a sense of knowing which cannot be duplicated in any sense of the word by using one's mind. In fact, your mind cannot even fathom something so amazing and delightfully fulfilling!

I believe it was Socrates who said, "Know thyself." Yea right... very difficult to do and easy to say. Do you really know yourself?

I am convinced Socrates was not saying, Be aware of what your opinion is regarding the situation pending in the United Nations this week.

He was referring to knowing yourself in the depths of your heart, who you are when no one is watching or listening to you. Knowing who you are in your deepest thoughts about life. Most people are almost completely unaware of this level of realism.

How could one even consider it when thinking the wrong way will cause your God to throw you away?

You see, when you discover your true self, it will expose some major shortcomings in organized religion.

Yes, I did say in Chapter One that Source is who we are in our inner most being. I said, "continuing to learn to trust my Inner Voice, my Higher Self, Source that lives in me and is me." Well, does the Bible not say, "Ye are Gods"? And in another place, As He is, so are we in this world? John 17 says Jesus prayed that we would be one with the Father, even as he was one with his Daddy?

Are we not on a journey of discovering or uncovering who God is not? Of course, that means then we will uncover who God really is, which will in turn, cause us to see ourselves for who we really are.

In this [union and fellowship with Him], love is completed and perfected with us, so we may have confidence in the day of judgment [with assurance and boldness to face Him]; because as He is, so are we in this world.
Hebrews 11:6*

And another one....for whoever comes [near] to God must [necessarily] believe God exists and He rewards those who [earnestly and diligently] seek Him. 1 John 4:17*

All religions are built on the premise that God is 'out there' somewhere, as opposed to being in your inner being, and "HE" is a greatly superior being we must submit to, for failure to do so will certainly spell out our eminent demise, the result being a permanent separation from God.

Before proceeding any further, I feel a need to amplify what I mentioned earlier about the contrast between Source and the god of the bible.

It is simply this. Source Energy, Prime Source, All That Is, The Universe, The Multiverse all refer to Life Force Energy. Where we get our identity from, our Source. I have been using the term god as it is used in the Bible, referring to the energy which goes by that title.

They are NOT THE SAME.

The god of the Bible is not who we want to be connected to.

* Amplified Bible (AMP) Copyright © 2015 by The Lockman Foundation, La Habra, CA 90631. All rights reserved.

PLEASE do not blow a head gasket!

If you will be patient for a while, you will see and understand what I am saying here. I know up to this point, I have used those titles or descriptions as if they are synonymous. I felt it was needed to get you at least to this point in our study.

I am NOT questioning your connection to Source in any way. You probably have used the name God or Jesus to refer to the energy I am referring to now as Source. The only difference here is the name to which I am using.. well at least almost so.

Stick with me if you want to understand what I am saying. Be open to change, you are not being threatened. Put it on the shelf, OK? You will be glad you did.

As previously shared, One day, my inner voice said to me, “you know you cannot displease God, don't you?” To which I replied... Say What?

And I heard, “that's right and you cannot please US either. We are not human, We (God) is Love, pure Love and it is impossible for Love to have an enemy.”

Wow! That one blew me away. And it gave me the KNOWING, the CONFIDENCE that I did not have to perform to be OK with Source. I was OK, just the way I was. Not long after this, a few days I think, I was told I could not screw up this human experience, it is impossible to 'blow it'.

Your intuition is never wrong. NEVER. However, it is possible to misinterpret it. I have done that more than once and guess what? It is OK to do that. We, as humans, have been designed to learn by making mistakes. That is how it works.

It is not wrong or evil to make a mistake. We don't know what we want until we figure out what it is we don't want.

Experience is a great teacher and it is this teacher that helps us understand when we find the peace in our knower and how to follow that peace. Especially when our minds go sideways with paranoia as peace is flooding our hearts.

This is the super condensed Reader's Digest version of our life long travels from the darkness of our minds to the enlightenment of our hearts.

I said it earlier, but I am saying it again.

I am not questioning anyone's connection to Source. You and you alone know in your heart, in your knower, whether you are connected or not. If you are not, it is as easy as saying to Source, I want to wake up and connect with you. That easy, and if you are being genuine in your request, things will happen in your inner being.

Many express feelings of joy, excitement, anticipation, freedom, etc.

Also know there are those 'teachers' out there who are connected to the "Order of Eternal Bliss and Freedom" (my satirical description of religion) that are most convinced what I am telling you is wrong.

I was being questioned at length one time about not appearing to be following the 'other persons' concepts and ideas of how a prophet was supposed to live and act. They were trying to use the bible to prove what they were saying was right.

I remember asking them what they were so afraid of. They were not aware they had any fear. I pointed out the need to act a certain way was totally based on fear.

Fear of what God would do to me and I would be responsible for leading others down a path of destruction. We talked about listening to one's heart, etc.

Finally I asked him to do something for me. I asked him to lay down his bible and not pick it up for six months. Get to know Source in your core being, I said. The same energy that made all that is, lives in your core being. Get to know them first hand.

Your job, if you should choose to accept it, is to listen to your heart and follow what it tells you. You will never go wrong if you just do that.

KINGDOM OF GOD

"It is no measure of health to be well adjusted to a profoundly sick society" J. Krishnamurti

When you discover your true self, it will expose some major shortcomings in organized religion... Yes, I did say earlier that Source is who we are in our inner most being, an individual, unique expression of Pure Love.

*...for whoever comes [near] to God must [necessarily] believe that God exists and that He rewards those who [earnestly and diligently] seek Him. Hebrews 11:6**

As I said earlier, all religions are built on the premise God is 'out there' somewhere, as opposed to being in your inner being. The problem here is what they teach simply does not work. As much as I am grateful for their existence and that part of my journey, the fact is, it's a trap for those with a desire to 'know' God. I was there once too, I get it and I desire to help others discover what true freedom is!

I was a worship leader in an Assembly of God church. I loved the group worship. I now do it in a much different way, more tangible and real.

In fact, if I had been shown how I interact with Spirit now (back then), I would have likely thrown a tantrum and called it Devil Worship!

One day, I was thinking about Source, which I did and still do a great deal. I asked why we needed to tell Him/Her/Them they were the very best, the most powerful, the coolest god of all. I said to Them, Do you have an ego problem? Source replied with a chuckle, why do you ask? My response was why do you need to be praised and told you are the best?

“Back when the Bible was written, then edited, then rewritten, then rewritten, then re-edited, then translated from dead languages, then re-translated, then edited, then rewritten, then given to kings for them to take their favorite parts, then rewritten, then rewritten, then translated again, then given to the pope for him to approve, then rewritten, then edited again, then re-re-re-re-written again... all based on stories that were told orally 30 to 90 years AFTER they happened ... to people who didn't know how to read or write.... so .....

David Cross

I was told worship was not about that, it was about connecting with my higher self, who I really was. I was OK with that answer for a long time.

But the more I woke up, the more I became aware that something in my knower was having a problem with the whole 'worship' process. In other words, the 'process' was the problem. It seemed to be the opposite of what source told me. It embodied connecting with someone "out there" instead of internally, with my higher self.

Please DO NOT FREEK OUT on me... I am not saying that its been done on purpose, at least not consciously. Please just read on...

In hindsight, I now see why I was having a problem. I was not aware of the true nature of what the system calls "worship" or I would have stopped on the spot! What is called "worship" is really group hypnotism and brain washing. I realize this is strong language. Remember, I am NOT saying this is being done intentionally, but the outcome is the same. It is a very powerful and effective way to control group thinking. It embraces submission to a god (giving away your sovereignty) that is 'out there' somewhere. It is about focusing on an energy OUTSIDE of yourself, instead of within you.

Repeating the same phrase many times over with music accompanying the chanting, causes it to get burned into you. This is done while keeping you focused on an energy OUTSIDE of YOURSELF. (The Kingdom of God is within you). It is really putting the group into a trance. It can provide a feeling of safety from Eternal Damnation, of feeling protected. However, the knowledge that something is a bit off can turn that into a mist of illusion. Especially when one realizes that there is no such thing as Eternal Damnation!

Looking back, it was a subtle nagging in my intuition that I chose to ignore. Again, the real issue is the FOCUS. It is directed OUTSIDE of yourself. It devalues you and elevates another energy. This is an important part of the subtle danger of Christianity or any cult. You are worthless and everyone else is not, especially the 'leadership'

If you are interested in learning more about this, go to YouTube and look up 432 hz music and 440 hz music. I am sure behind all of this are the same forces (dark) that have been behind everything negative in the world since the beginning of time, working to keep us from 'waking up'.

Rockefeller's funded the study of what happens when the frequency of music is changed from 432 hz (which is in harmony with the earth) and 440 hz (which is NOT in harmony.) Then they funded the process of standardizing all music to be tuned to 440 hz.

I have no idea how much this cost but one thing I do know is they don't spend money on something unless there is a return on their investment. It is no secret that the Rockefeller's are into the New World Order, which is directly connected to Satanism. Study this more if you want to know more. It will amaze you. Btw, I have found that music played at 432 hz seems to open me to the awareness of Mother Earth energy in a very real way. I have listened to the same piece of music at both frequencies and 432 makes it easy, where 440 makes it very difficult to connect. You can download a free converter that changes a song to 432 on the fly. Here is a short clip from the 432 website:

The 432Hz 'God' Note: Why Fringe Audiophiles Want to Topple Standard Tuning

The first time Ivan Yanakiev heard an instrument tuned to 432 Hertz, he says, it was like he'd heard God speak.

In the men's dressing room at the Musical Drama Theatre Konstantin Kisimov in Veliko Tarnovo, Bulgaria, Yanakiev, a young, National Academy-schooled conductor, had his friend, Velimir, tune his cello down eight Hz from the standard A=440Hz. They were arranging an experiment.

Back to worship...

I remember going to the leadership in a church I was involved in and asking them to please switch the order of service. I wished to put the preaching first and then the worship. WOW, you would have thought I was asking for a million dollars. They really reacted in hard core refusal. I did not understand why until a long time later. After a congregation has been into 'worship' for a while, they become very open to 'preaching'. They have been primed for programming. It is a fact... just observe what happens with an open mind and you will see. They are not trying to teach you Satanism, it is the fact that the energies behind all of this are simply trying to keep you distracted from entering the Holy of Hollies, in your heart space.

If you are looking inside of yourself, you are seeking the Kingdom of God, pure and simple.

I later learned that tuning into my heart space is what brought me Internal Peace and Joy! I found the presence of Source was much more real than it ever was using the old methods. Tuning into an energy outside of myself set up a false sense of peace. No matter what, I always had a very subtle sense that something didn't add up and I ignored it again and again.

I participated in this practice willingly, ignorant of what the effects were, we all have. Did this cause an issue with Source? No. If you have done this, are you guilty of some kind of sin? NO!

Source is not empowered by our attention or lack of it, and sin is non-existent. Old programming is getting in our way again. Changing old ways of thinking can sometimes take a while Source is complete in Themselves and need no one to tell them they are cool.

In spite of my error in focus (outside instead of inside), Source still met me right where I was and will meet you too.

Even though we have been told hundreds of times we need to submit to be safe, it just is not true. You cannot get this human experience wrong!. Do not give away your power to anyone at anytime for any reason.

The system taught us we have inherited SIN from thousands of years ago. In order to sell us with the idea of needing a savior, the dark side had to create a reason to be saved, something to be saved from. The concept that someone died to SAVE you from this SIN generates a sense of indebtedness for being rescued from perpetual Eternal Punishment.

The need to submit to another in order to solve the problem of alienation from god is the backbone of Christianity. It very effectively renders us impotent in every way. We willingly give away our sovereignty to another. We unknowingly trade freedom for safety.

Ben Franklin once said that anyone that would trade freedom for safety deserves neither safety nor freedom.

Very heavy when one realizes what has happened to each of us, to all of humanity. This dis-empowerment succeeded because we unconsciously desire to regain our sense of oneness with Source.

This was where we once lived, in perfect union with Source, before we fell asleep in our human coma. We have been programmed by constant repetition to believe that we are estranged from Source and the only way to fix it requires our submission to someone greater than ourselves, the giving away of our sovereignty.

As long as we stay asleep, the system will remain alive and well. There is nothing broken, so nothing needs to get fixed! We only need to take our sovereignty back. We are all equal in every way that matters.

Freedom is another word for Source. Freedom is so underrated! It is everything we desire and hope for!

Protecting our freedom is critical to our sovereignty. To no longer be restricted in any way... That is true freedom. I want that for myself, and I strongly desire that my fellow humans have this option too. Free of the restraints and restrictions of religion in any form is my dream for humanity.

One cannot help but notice I am saying the Bible has issues of not being the pure, UN-defiled, total “Word of God” and that being the case, why am I quoting from it? Good question!

There is a magical, amazing, astounding principal at work here that defies the natural minds ability to comprehend it. But somehow, in spite of the hordes of mis-translations and downright intentional mis-representations of facts, enough clues somehow found their way into the manuscripts for us to see our way out of bondage, IF we choose to.

Verses here and there resonate with hidden meanings and deep truths, subtle hints whisper... there is more. The logical question is... what the heck dude... you just pick out the ones you want and leave the others behind? Really?

Yep, sure looks like that, huh. Here we go again... back to the intuition, back to listening to the heart instead of sense and reason. As much as the old teachers want to make this mystical experience into a logical, sensible story you can fit into your mind... you simply cannot do it. You cannot put Source in a box, no matter what name you put on it or how big the box is.

...holding to a form of [outward] godliness (religion), although they have denied its power [for their conduct nullifies their claim of faith].
2 Timothy 3:5 A*

The system teaches we should trust these leaders to teach us the truth. After all, they have been through Seminary School. They have their certificates to prove it. They have studied to show themselves approved ...

Study and do your best to present yourself to God approved, a workman [tested by trial] who has no reason to be ashamed, accurately handling and skillfully teaching the word of truth. 2 Timothy 2:15*

This verse is ALL about the MIND, hence eating from the tree of the knowledge of good and evil....vs eating from the tree of life.

Notice the good is from the same tree as the evil is?

If you are not familiar with these “tree's”, they are part of the story in the book of Genesis that deals with the “FALL” of mankind from the graces of this “god” of the Bible.

Also notice you must do something to be accepted, to be OK with god. Really? These teachers, the leaders of these cults and religions, convince their followers (they believe it too) they have the “inside information” to insure one’s eternal bliss and tranquility.

If only they did have the inside information, they really could do that!

Pun Intended.

Whoa! Now wait a minute. I am not saying these are evil people on a path of subverting the truth in order to suck naive folks into supporting them and their “Order of Eternal Bliss and Tranquility!”

I am not saying their motives are bad or wrong. I was there myself once and I was as convinced as they are that I was right.

So what makes me think where I am now in my concepts and perceptions is going to make a difference as compared to where I was then? Good question!

I expect by now, you are scratching your head, as it sounds like I am talking out of both sides of my mouth at the same time.

What it boils down to is this. What part of you are you listening with, I mean reading this with? Are you using your mind to try and understand this or are you using your heart, your knower, to perceive it?

There is a HUGE difference between the two and consequently, the reason I was, and most people have been, indoctrinated into the “Order of Eternal Bliss and Tranquility”, instead of being introduced to the Source of all Life Force Energy that resides in one's heart. The intuition does not need to engage the natural mind in order to 'get it', That being the Source of Life itself. The intelligence of the heart is beyond the understanding of the natural mind.

Science has proven there is more neuron connections in the heart than in the brain. In other words, our hearts are better equipped to run the show than our heads are.

If we had been taught how to listen correctly, we would have figured out we were 'hood winked' a long time ago!

We were not offered a choice of interpretation methods, so we simply went with what they told us'. And that was the plan all along. There is a dark side that does not want us to wake up. The dark side is not stupid. It is very smart and it knows that if it can keep the leaders in their minds and out of their core being, they will continue to plant seeds of doubt, fear, paranoia, jealousy, pride, and control.

These dark energies are mostly non-human ethereal beings and they have the ability to drop thoughts into our minds, but NOT our hearts. Well meaning people get sucked into this all the time. I am speaking from experience here, I was one of them. If they can continue to make us think that the intuition, our hearts are not trust worthy, most of their battle is already over. Confusion is a powerful tool.

WHO GOD IS NOT

Source Energy, this “Source of All Life Force”, is what drives me and (us) to perceive, to 'get it', to KNOW it intimately in my and (our) core being! This drive pushes me and (us) to discover the truth and it is like the drive that draws a moth to the light, to the candle flame, even when responding to this drive could result in the demise of the moth. It MUST go to the light... IT MUST!

This is the same drawing that pulls on me, day and night, week after week, year after year... I must go into the light (understanding).... Not going there just makes me miserable, unhappy, unfulfilled, and empty... why do you think people abuse drugs and alcohol? Why do you think they go on intense sexual spree's? Why do they throw themselves into all manner of activity to try and suppress the calling, that draw, the feeling that says .. is this all there is to life?

Of course there are those who couldn't care less... they are asleep at the wheel, lulled into complacency by the "Order of Eternal Bliss and Tranquility." They have their 'fire insurance' already (not going to Hell) and if they do something wrong...all they gotta do is say some prayers and perhaps pay a 'fine' (offering) to pacify their pissed off God.

So... this is where the rubber meets the road. The real question is (and only you can answer it)...are you one of those that MUST fly into the flame or do you simply find this somewhat interesting. I don't need to know the answer, you do.

Any choice is alright with me, for all that really matters is you have a choice. Free Choice is everything! Knowing this about yourself is very important if you are ever to know yourself, few people ever get there.

You see, this whole journey is not about pleasing someone else or even pleasing Source. This is an inside job... all the way. It is about pleasing yourself, in your heart of hearts, the REAL YOU. That is what you must please, where you must find peace... in.. Your Heart ... Your intuition.

Now don't get confused when I say this. Just a couple of inches below your heart is your gut, the pit of your stomach. That is where fear resides. The head and the gut work together to protect the sovereignty of the ego. The gut-head reaction is a crystal clear indicator that one is in their ego mind instead of their heart space.

The realization of this provides a virtual “GPS” for us to use. It is a sign post at a fork in the road. One path is ego and fear, the other is peace and freedom. The choice is between listening to our mind-gut-ego or paying attention to our heart, who we really are. If we miss it and choose the head-gut-ego, so what. Choose the heart the next time. Making a mistake is being human.

An old saying says: The greatest distance a human will ever travel is from their head to their heart.

What a great truth.

If you recall, I shared in the last chapter we could not please or displease Source and that Source is pure love.

Remember, Source is NOT human. This love could never ever have an enemy or hurt anyone.

I was attending a three day seminar aimed at helping those who felt stuck. Stuck in their life, not able to grow and change. I learned some great stuff.

One is the following: Traditional thinking says, If you just DO what you need to DO, you will HAVE what you need so you can BE who you want to BE. The perspective from the spiritual view of life is: Just BE who you are and you will HAVE what you need in order to DO what you want to DO.

Do Have Be                      or                      Be Have Do

So how do you BE who you are? Live from your heart, your intuition, who you really are, the eternal part of you, the part that is motivated and fueled by LOVE.

It is that simple, just do unto others as you would have them do unto you. Sound familiar?

With this comes the other part of the equation, the Law of Allowing.

This is simply allowing others to be themselves, what ever it looks like... as long as they are not hurting or interfering in someone else 's life. What someone else does is none of your business, as long as they are observing these guidelines. This is simply unconditional love.

Simple but very hard to do for those stuck in following some kind of rules about behavior. Of course the first thing you hear from these people is, 'You can't just let people do what ever they want to do'.

And the question is, Why not? Now I am not talking about driving on the wrong side of the road or taking stuff without paying for it. Those are obvious rules we all go by for the betterment of our society, and both of those would be hurting someone else. But what about those who teach different things about God, you know, different religions? If we allow this, they will be teaching kids the wrong things, they will end up in hell. Or worse, they may affect our kids thinking!

Most people would say that hell is separation from God's love... , but reality is .. that's impossible. Even David said if he were in hell, Source would be there too.

Notice I used the Identity of Source there instead of god? Listen to your heart space when you interpret sacred writings or anything for that matter. It is one of our guiding tools in life. The bible uses god there, of course.

If one uses that meaning, then almost everyone is in hell already.

Almost everyone, especially those in Christianity, already think they are separated from Source... at least until they check their heart space.

I was having a discussion the other day with a long time friend of mine who is a minister now. He has his Doctorate from Seminary School. We were having a discussion about whether to follow ones intuition vs following the rules. He was insisting we have to follow the rules, because the bible says we are to do this.

I was saying we have to listen to our heart intuition. I was pointing out that his posture embraced fear, fear that we could screw up and go to hell or at least, disappoint god!

Without realizing it, he got into his heart space and said it would never happen, he knew he was secure. I chose not to point out he just got touched his heart space. Left his head out of equation, did he... :-)

Sometimes, it is just better to keep one's mouth shut. A lesson that has been hard for me to learn. Of course he didn't realize he was talking out of both sides of his mouth at the same time. At some point, he will get it.

Experience is a great teacher and it helps us understand when we find peace in our knower and how to follow that peace. Especially when that peace goes sideways with what our minds are telling us.

As I have already said, this is the super condensed Reader's Digest version of our life long travels from the darkness of our minds to the enlightenment of our hearts. If it were only that easy to actually do.

I sense there are those who, having just read the part about making a mistake, are seriously thinking they are not willing to take a chance on 'blowing' their 'salvation' on something as radical as I am writing about. I get it, I really do! Been there, done that, got the t-shirts and bumper stickers.

This is the place I was talking about earlier, the place of change or having to face the possibility of change.

What or who are you listening to and from where are you listening... head vs knower. Ponder that a bit....if you dare.

At the end of our life in a human body, we come face to face with Source Energy. There is no one else there to intervene, no one to go between or intercede for us... it is just you and Source...the real you, your higher self. Time to get genuine and real. Of the thousands and thousands of people that have been interviewed after having Near Death Experiences (NDE's), (I have had six of them), not ONE of them has ever said that Source is anything other than Pure Love.

There is no god that is going to punish anyone..ever... That is pure BULL, it was designed to keep people in fear and obedience.

The 'concept of hell' came from a time when the Hebrew people were the slaves of the Egyptians.

There were more slaves than masters. This made the masters worried about a revolt. So they came up with the theory of perpetual punishment (hell) to solve it. It has worked pretty good, at least for a few thousand years. Just get them while they are young and force feed it to them!

Has it really worked that well... this 'doctrine of endless punishment? No, not really... It is not the outside expression of humanity that matters... it is the heart posture, the attitude says it all.

But the sun (light, truth) has dawned upon the Age of Aquarius and all that has been hidden is coming out into the light.

Poor Hilary...

So looked at your heart lately? If one is fearful of rejection, it can be downright scary to be 'genuine and honest' with a TYRANT that can torture you FOREVER for merely thinking wrong.

It is wonderful to realize there is NOT some white haired old grandfather (Caucasian, of course) with a great white beard, sitting on a huge throne... sternly looking down at you over his horn rimmed glasses... ready to condemn you to endless torture, just because you did not say the right words in the right order so you could 'be saved' from an endless HELL. That's UGLY!

Oh yea, the worst part is, IF he doesn't draw you in, YOU COULD LOSE. What if he changes his mind? Feels like being a helpless pawn in a futile conflict.

Sounds like a really bad acid trip, doesn't it? And yet, this is still the teaching of traditional Christianity today.

And they told us, after scaring us damn near to death, 'remember' , god loves you. Really? Are you serious?

This really motivates me to drop all my walls and become totally vulnerable. I must allow another (and even myself) to see all of my faults, shortcomings, mistakes, flaws, anger, jealousy, etc. Really? I don't think so, honey! Not going to happen, nope nope nope.

I'll just take my chances when the time comes... perhaps HE will have some kind of mercy on me. Can't deal with that right now, I'll just put it off for some other time, a rainy day perhaps. What is amazing about this kind of thinking is how many people actually think this way.

But when one connects with the reality of True Source Energy, the "ONE" that is sleeping in your heart (if you haven't awakened yet), the concept of any kind of rejection is actually funny!

It is just another pile of bull. No matter how much you try and cover it up with nice smelling sprays, and pretty flowers, Bull Crap is STILL Bull Crap.

When you realize Source Energy is truth and light, then you can welcome it into your inner world. Getting real brings a great release from fear of 'being found out'.

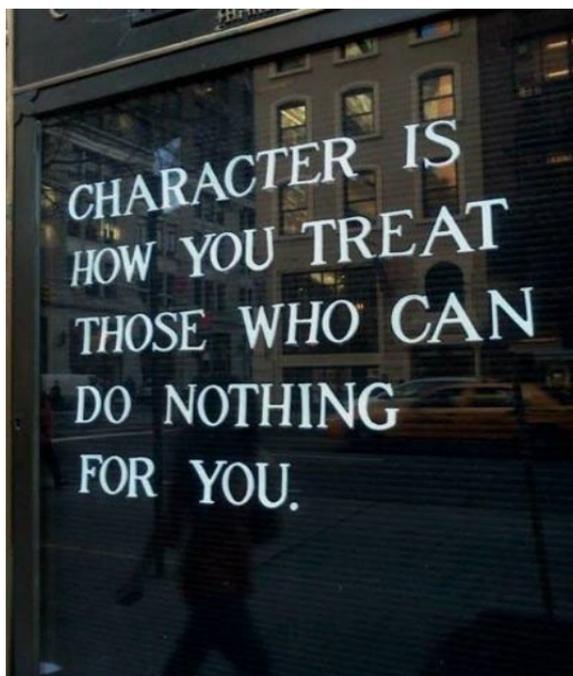

“Forgive me, Father, for I have sinned.” OK, my son, what did you do? “I had thoughts of lust and I really want this expensive car and I need more money and and and ...” Your sins are forgiven, my son. Say thirteen 'Hail Mary's and put fifty dollars in the prayer box. Go and sin no more. WHEW... Good for another week!

So when asked to look at your heart, you can do so knowing there is NO FEAR of judgment, nothing to be concerned about! In fact, it releases joy and happiness that will flood your inner being.

Also know there are 'teachers' out there connected to the “Order of Eternal Bliss and Freedom” that are most convinced what I am telling you is EVIL and wrong. Your job, if you should choose to accept it, is to listen to your knower and follow what it tells you. You will never go wrong if you just do that.

One last note here: What someone else thinks about you is NONE of your business. Most important concept to realize and apply.

SOURCE IS PURE LOVE

*You can get happy in the same clothes you got sad in
unknown author*

It has been said and I think it is quite accurate, that one becomes like the God they worship. That is one of the reasons I have chosen to write this.

Being convinced Source is pure love is wonderfully assuring to those of us raised in the old paradigm of having to earn our way to heaven. Of course with revelation comes responsibility. This is no exception. Of course we were taught that the Entry Ticket to Heaven was a free gift, but we also knew that if we didn't toe the line, it might be Adios time. When it finally sinks in that there is NOTHING you can do to alienate Source from your world, absolutely nothing, it is a moment of tremendous celebration.

This knowing is becoming aware we can actually express this level of love in and through our lives. This awareness usually goes hand in hand with the (sometimes painful) knowing we are not quite there yet. But that is OK. We are on the way.

To accomplish this means we must learn how to change our posture or position, the way we see others and ourselves. We must become pliable, be willing to change, to let go of our programmed beliefs, even if they feel SACRED.

Sometimes, all we can do is be willing to change. As I said earlier, Don't just live outside of the box, throw the box away!

Allowing ourselves to 'let go' means submitting to one's higher self, your knower, your heart, to Source. This will alter the way we see the world. This change is the result of heart acknowledgment rather than the changing of our mind. Our minds change and are renewed as we conform to our heart.

It is about bringing one's entire being into alignment with what resonates in your intuition. As we submit to the teachings of our knower, we start to become cognizant of not being totally at peace. We all have issue's of one kind or another. So does this whole process happen automatically, all by itself?

That is what we have been taught, is it not. We were told we didn't have to do anything.

That it was all under the blood of Jesus...

This kind of thinking voids the idea of working out our own salvation. There is a verse that says to work out your salvation with fear and trembling. WOW! Fear and trembling? Really? Paranoia up the ying yang.

What can this FEAR of rejection have to do with unconditional love? That's right, nothing.

The whole purpose of our being here is to experience limitation, to be a flawed Human, to truly know by experience the tremendous depth of love that Source is. Again, to know there is nothing we can do to alienate Source...NOTHING. Our crowning glory is realizing who we really are, a piece of Source having a human experience, of being ONE with everything that exists. Talk about FREEDOM.

Back again to having been taught to give away our power, to submit to a power greater than us.

When I say this, please be aware I do so with respect and honor to who I really AM, One with ALL THAT IS.

I realize full well what I just said, I get it. The real person we call Jesus came here to show us there was nothing left to do, there never was anything to fix in the first place.

I am telling you what really happened, not the story we were sold. The fall of man only happened in our human minds, not in our hearts. And that is only because we bought the idea. We were told we were sinners and so we believed it. Why wouldn't we? We trusted our 'leaders' and our parents.

Reality is, there never was such a thing as a 'fall' in the eyes of Source. Nothing was ever broken in our connection with THEM. We simply needed to wake up from our limitation, our dream, this illusion of separation.

But you say, I felt a burden lift from me when I came to Jesus. I understand it... been there, done that, woke up to the why's about that.

Please don't get angry unless it is at the system. I really do understand where you are. If I am guilty of anything, it is wanting to know Source so much my heart aches to KNOW Source as myself.

To understand what and how Source thinks and feels about everything, in the NOW.

I can guarantee your way of thinking is the result of studying the Bible and listening to your parents and preacher.

Any one that has been a believer for very long will began to see something is wrong with the story. If God is love, unconditional love, then why are there all these rules we have to follow in order to please him. If you don't follow the rules, you will be punished.

This makes no sense when you look in your heart, when you see the energy that lives there, that we call God or Source. You know they would never ever hurt anyone, would never throw anyone away. NEVER... EVER... EVER.

Can you see the result of being honest with your intuition? It takes you to a place where you must choose between two totally different ways of thinking.

Either you believe the god of the Bible is our Creator, the one that demands obedience or, you listen to your intuition, what your heart is telling. I have and am going with the knowing in my core.

WHO GOD IS NOT

The knowing says I am and you are completely acceptable to Source. There is nothing we can do to become more acceptable than we already are or ever were.

This is where a lot of people get hung up on what I am saying. As soon as we say, God or God of the Old Testament, they automatically kick into a 'way of thinking' that has been programmed by years and years of meetings and songs, repeating verses over and over and over again, until they became burned into our beings.

Remember what I said about worship earlier? About the brain washing and programming?

Some of the theology we were taught was downright WRONG, but we didn't know it at the time. Our intentions were right and good. None of us, including the leaders, knew we were just a bit off track. Not enough to disqualify us, but enough to prevent us from hitting the mark of the high calling. This is one of the reasons why I use the term Source over and over again INSTEAD of using god.

The other reason is it seems degrading and insulting (in my mind) to associate that 'dark energy' of the old testament, that poser the bible calls god, with Source, even though I know all things come from Source, even the dark side.

Most of us that were in religion seem to have developed some kind of a mix between the two concepts. Kinda like the unofficial motto of Christianity that says: We will obey the laws of Moses by the grace of Jesus Christ. OMG! What a completely insane, impossible paradigm to apply and maintain. It is like what I heard a preacher say one night. "We must try to be perfect even though we know that we can never be this side of heaven." How can one even say such a ignorant thing, must less believe it.

These two concepts (the Law of Moses and the Grace of Jesus Christ) are diametrically opposed to each other. One must be earned by following the rules of this false god, and we were told the other is a free gift. So we somehow mixed up a witches brew of both concepts and then tried to make sense of it all in our daily lives. No wonder we felt like a pawn caught between two great cosmic forces at war with each other. Pure Insanity !

Am I the first person to ever come to the understanding about the difference between Source and the little poser? No, most assuredly not. However, I may be the first to be crazy enough to put it in print. If I was not completely convinced what I am saying is a fact, I would be a fool to do this. Am I aware of the hell that will be forthcoming as the result of publishing this? Yes, I AM.

However I will do what I sense to do, regardless of the outcome. If only one person “gets it”, my time has not been wasted. Am I concerned about the flak I will get? No, this is not my first rodeo. I lost my virginity a long time ago. I have dealt with energies that are so dark, it makes your skin crawl. I know who I AM, it is no big deal.

I have been close to my best friend for sixty five of my sixty nine years, as close as anyone can be. I have called him Jesus and even though I now know he is not and never was what the bible says about him, He is one cool dude. Been there thru thick and thin, he is still my best friend, no matter what name he answers to.

Knowing in my core being He is very real was one of the hardest things for me to reconcile when I saw the god of the Bible was not Source Energy. That made me start to question everything. If that god is not real, than what about Jesus? And yet I knew that I knew He was. Does it matter what name he uses? Not in the slightest.

Sometimes I feel as if I have an unfair advantage over most people. I have been shown many things that make it easier for me to understand some of the why's and where fore's regarding this pile of lies we were sold as being truth.

When I first fully realized that we have been lied to big time, I was a very angry guy! Fact is, I was furious. I have done my forgiveness work now and I am at peace with it. It's all part of our journey, of remembering who we are in a world that is doing everything it can to keep us from that.

About twenty five years ago, I had attended a four day workshop in Tacoma, Washington. It was put together for people that wanted a change in their life. I was feeling quite stuck and didn't know what to do to get out of it.

It was similar to other self improvement classes. They push you to work on intense emotional stuff and don't allow you to get much sleep.

It is quite an effective method of getting you to be real. All the 'niceties' tend to fall away. One gets grouchy when you get really tired, right? The real you comes out. It felt like ninety five hours of hell and one hour of heaven.

In the weeks preceding the workshop, Source had been dealing with me about being real regarding my gender dysphoria issues. I had been pushed by my internal teacher (knower) to tell my then wife... all. I felt certain that she would not be accepting of it and I was right. That knowing made it all the more difficult to do.

During the workshop, it all came out in the open and my ex-wife was pushing it to do so. She was acting out her pain of feeling rejected, looking for support as a righteous christian wife. Previously, I tried to tell her the G.D. was all about me and not her, but she couldn't hear it. By that I mean the G.D. was not caused by her doing or not doing something. She did not trigger it.

I totally understood her position and believe me when I say the last thing I wanted was to hurt her.

I remember very well, sitting on the floor in front of thirty five other attendee's as well as ten assistant workers and the facilitator, bawling and sobbing my heart out. It was devastating for both of us. I felt very broken at that point, as well as feeling like a victim.

Upon returning home, my self image was just about as bad as it could get. I was struggling in a very intense deep way with just being alive. I was beating myself up for putting my wife in the space she was in. And I was stuck in victim hood to the max, feeling ever so sorry for myself. This posture is a very ugly place to be.

If you have never been in a place like this, I hope you never are. And if you have, I have a great deal of compassion toward you.

Deep in my intuition, I felt a drawing to cross dress and I argued that I sure didn't need to do that on top of everything else! But the drawing just got stronger, so I yielded to Spirit. You may think that it was not Source drawing me and you are free to think that.

I knew that it was. When you know, you know.

I had just finished getting totally dressed in drag and I had a very clear vision. I saw three thrones. As I looked at them, the one on the left was empty, the one in the middle was occupied by the Father (whom I could not see,) and the one on the right had Jesus sitting in it. He was just sitting there, looking a bit bored.

He had a short beard and was wearing a long robe and sandals, a bit like a hippie. He looked straight in my eyes with his usual loving respectful gaze, totally accepting me dressed the way I was. Not even a hint of irritation or disapproval regarding my appearance. I was feeling uncomfortable though. I did not want Him to see me dressed like this.

Isn't it strange the way the human mind works? As if I was invisible if He weren't looking at me? Our thoughts are known before we even think them. And yet, there is never any rejection of us, NEVER. Just is what it is.

I immediately said to my teacher (Holy Spirit, knower), Why is He on that side of the Father? The Bible says that He is seated on the right hand of the Father, and the throne on the right hand of the Father is empty. My teacher asked me who wrote the verse, man or God? I replied that man did.

I was asked what I saw as I looked at the scene. I was embarrassed as I replied, I see Him seated on the right hand of the Father. Oh boy, did I feel stupid. End of problem.

I find it fascinating that my perception of a simple thing like which side was He sitting on was important enough to have it clarified for me.

Then Jesus spoke to me very candidly, “I hate being treated like Santa Claus (it was just before Christmas), I am not Santa Claus”.

He said this like we were at the local tavern, shooting pool or something. I asked him why He was sitting down and He told me there was had nothing to do. He said there was nothing to fix. I looked at Him in disbelief, surprised at His statement. He looked right through me and said, “YOU must appropriate what's been done for you.

You have to do it, no one can do it for you”.

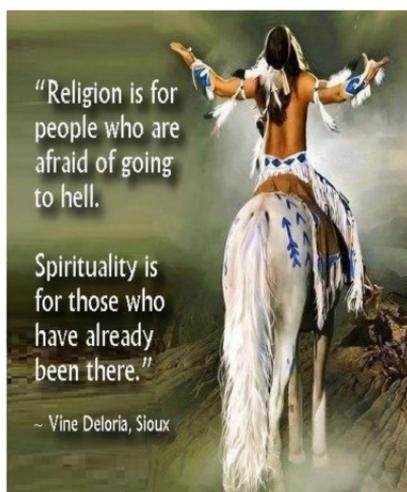

If I were to say that my victim mentality was not happy with that, it would be an understatement.

I then asked Him why the throne on the other side was empty and His reply was it was reserved for humanity.

That whole scenario seems strange until you understand there never was a separation between Source and man, except in the mind of man. And the perceived separation would not exist except for two things.

One was we were told it was true and we believed it.

Secondly, we fell asleep in order to come here and experience this place, we lost our conscious connection with Source, leaving us feeling as if we were very separated from them.

I know this can be hard to hear if you have not already understood it. But this is a fact. I was shown this very clearly in an amazing vision explaining why we are here and what this is all about. This vision will be visited in full in Return to the Ancient Paths.

The system has capitalized on the fact that just about everyone feels something is wrong before they have a spiritual awakening. The system taught us this feeling was sin.

Of course we were also taught this was caused from being guilty for disobeying god some six thousand years ago by someone you don't know and are not related to. So we bought it, for lack of a better explanation. Group pressure to believe was very prevalent.

[Interesting Note]

Are you aware of the origin of the word SIN? I wasn't either and it bugged me for a very long time. I finally discovered the meaning of the word and how it was applied. Wow... get a load of this one...

A very very long time ago, two half brothers (we'll call them Abe and Bill) were fighting with each other over the geographic area's they had been given to rule.

'Abe' had a small area and 'Bill' had a large area. The smaller one had only two cities in it, Ur and Sin. The other had many, many large cities. 'Bill' was publicly belittling 'Abe' to his subjects, running him down as political people do.

The resulting slander became the status quo. Any one who came from Sin was a Sinner (New Yorkers are from New York).

The sinners were branded as bad people. They were the enemy.

As many old stories morph into truths over time, this was no exception. That's a true story, as stupid as it seems to be. Names have been changed to protect the guilty.

[End of Interesting Note]

So what is this feeling that something is wrong? Many have said when they gave their heart to Jesus, the 'wrong' disappeared. It happened to me too. So when I began to understand nothing was ever broken, there never had been any separation between Source and Me, I felt a great joy and peace surge through my being. There are no words that do justice to this 'knowing'!

As a direct result, I pondered and prayed about it for quite some time. I had a deep desire and need to understand.

I began to see the 'something' that was wrong. It was simple ... we were asleep, we had to go into a human coma to be here, and it was time to wake up. As the verse says: Awake oh sleeper and arise.

To realize each of us is a unique individual expression of Source Energy and we chose to come here to experience being human is huge. That we are here to experience the illusion of separation from Source, and believe it or not, to experience physical death is a magnificent revelation.

What? Are you kidding me? No, I am not. If you have not yet been able to see yourself as more than a human being stuck in this life and trying to survive, it may be rather hard to receive. Never the less, it is true. We are the ocean in a drop, not a drop in the ocean.

Since in reality we are a piece of Source, we (our consciousness) never actually die, or can even get hurt. By coming here, we get to experience the illusion of dying.

This is something we can never experience outside of the 'ride in the amusement park'. Its called 'being human.'

I am sure, that if you have a logical mind, you already see more problems with the scenario that we were told. Yes, the story of the conception and birth of Jesus was also made up. So are you telling me He was not real? Oh no, He was and is very real. Like I said, He is and has been my best friend since I was four years old.

The story was made up to validate the whole idea of sin and restoration from alienation. You don't really need a GOD unless you have DEVIL with SIN to bring contrast. This means that you NEED a SAVIOR to 'redeem you'.

What about the virgin birth, the twelve disciples, the crucifixion, dead for three days and the resurrection? Look up the history of Horus, the Egyptian God.

Thousands of years before the 'birth' of Jesus, about three thousand B.C., we have the following:

Born on December 25, Born of a Virgin, Star in the East, Adored by Three Kings, Teacher at age twelve, Baptized into Ministry at Thirty, Twelve Disciples, Performed Miracles, Called the Lamb of God.

Also called The Light of the World, Was Crucified, Dead for three days, and Resurrected. All these are attributes of not only of Horus, but all of the following gods:

The god Attis, Krishna of India 900 BC, Dionysus of Greece 500 BC, Mithra of Persia 1200 BC.

Numerous Saviors in history, all sharing the same attributes that are said to only belong to Jesus.

Chrishna of Hindostan, Budha Sakia of India, Salicanhana of Bermuda, Zulis or zhule, also Osiris or Orus of Egypt, Odin of the Saninavians, Crite of Chaldea, Zoroaster and Mithra of Persia, Baal and Taut, the only Begotton God of Phonecia, Indra of Tibet, Baali of Afganistan, Jao of Nepah, Wittoba of the Bilingonese, Thammuz of Syria, Aty's of Phrygia, Damolcis of Thrace, Zoar of the Bonzes, Adad of Assyria, Deba Tat and Sammonocadam of Siam, Alcides of Thebes.

Mikado of the Sintoos, Beddru of Japan, Hesus or Eros and Bremrillah of the Druids, Thor son of Odin of the Gauls, Cadmus of Greece, Hil and Feta of the Mandalies, Gentaut and Quexalcote of Mexico.

But wait, there is more!

Universal Monarch of the Sibyls, Ischy of the Island of Formosa, Divine Teacher of Plato, Holy One of Xaca, Fohi and Tien of China, Adonis son of the Virgin Io of Greece, Ixion and Quirinus of Rome, Prometheus of Caucasus.

Watch the movie Zietgeist. You can find it on YouTube for free. Fascinating documentary and most informative.

This story is really all about the two bitter enemies, Light and Dark, The Sun providing light and the Darkness that comes when the sun goes down. It is very obvious this was not something new to the human race. Nothing unique to brag about. The Son arises with healing in it's rays (wings). That is a verse in the Bible somewhere. It is addressing the SUN coming up in the morning. The wings are the rays coming from the sun. They changed the spelling to read son instead of sun.

The old war between darkness/cold and day/warm.

Even Paul said to the Romans, The god that we present to you is not new to you. You call him the unknown god. We just give you the name of him, that being Jesus.

These attributes were well known in those times are belonging to deities.

The real Jesus came in as an avatar, meaning that he came in as a full grown person, with out the need to grow as a child, without the loss of memory we have all had.

When I found this out, I jumped for joy! That was the missing piece to the puzzle. He was an AVATAR.

He was trying to tell the people there was complete acceptance by Source. Source was there to love and accept them.

Very little of what he really said is recorded and what they did remember (history was verbal, not written,) they mostly misunderstood.

The one part I am convinced he actually did say was when he confronted the Scribes and Pharisees, the leaders of Judaism in their day. He told them their father was the Devil, that he was a murderer and a liar from the beginning. He obviously was referring to Jehovah, the god of the old testament.

Remember the money changers he drove from the temple? Modern Christianity is nothing more than a modified form of Judaism.

I am again repeating myself with the following statement: I am NOT questioning your connection and relationship with Jesus or Source. It is VALID.

The issue here is the attributes we were told belonged to Source that do not.

That little god of the bible is NOT our creator, but the great deceiver of all mankind. Plain and simple, no tricks like the hidden agenda of Christianity. This is reality.

Are you aware that the Gospels were not even written for over a hundred fifty years after Jesus was supposed to have lived. No one was even alive that would have hung out with him, if the story is even real.

If it happened the way they say, it would have been 'hearsay', handed down information from someone's memory. More on this later.

One day, I was reading a book called "The Wingmakers, Part I." It has over nine hundred pages of amazing material in it. I was reading the forward, a section dealing with questions and answers that caught my attention.

There is a section where James Mahu, the interpreter-translator of much of the material was saying he had incarnated here many times before, and if he were to share the names he was known by, we would recognize them immediately.

Reminder to Higher Self:

Never, under any circumstances, or state of mind, or intense desire to be of help, or ridiculously naive delusions of grandeur, volunteer to incarnate on a 3rd dimensional world and pursue a mission while in complete amnesia.

He went on to say this time, no one would know his true identity. The material needed to be the focal point and he did not want anyone worshipping him. When I read the part that said, "I will be there with you"... I got slammed really hard, like being hit with a freight train at full speed!

I let out a shout and immediately started bawling like a child. This was exactly the same energy I connected with when I asked Jesus to come into my heart at the ripe old age of four! Truly amazing, to say the least.

Am I saying that he was Jesus? No, I am saying what I said. The energy was the same. That says to me that James comes from the same place in spirit that Source does.

I have had many strange dreams and visions, etc (I have mentioned this before) that found no confirmation in Christianity. Fact is, I had received the opposite reaction from many clergyman.

The more I read the material attributed to the Wingmakers, the more confirmation I received. I believe everything I have been shown in my life has now been confirmed by Them.

I am sure there are those that think I am totally deceived. It is their prerogative. I can only share what has been made real to me. I would like to say this though.

The bottom line to all of this is ... it's an INSIDE JOB!

All of these knowings and changes are things that happen to us on the INSIDE, in our hearts. Remember, those that seek me with all their hearts shall find me.

The God I have been connected to since I was a little kid is the same God (Source) that has been shown to me throughout the Wingmaker writings.

I am totally convinced this is the same God we all have found in our hearts, the one that does not betray us, reject us, or throw us away for any reason.

The one that is always there for us, always has our highest and best in mind. As my friends granddaughter says, our bestest friend.

The same God has given me the tools to beat my Gender Dysphoria completely. Psychology and psychiatry says there is no cure for G.D. Well, I AM cured.. completely! It is simply not there anymore. I will share more in Return to the Ancient Paths.

One more interesting note: In 2 Thessalonians 2, it says the day of the Lord will not come until the apostasy comes first.

Look it up if you want, I am not going to quote it all here. Point being in the original, the day of the Lord refers to the office of the Christ appearing in you as the result of your choosing. Goes on to say the apostasy comes first, which literally means a falling away of what you once believed.

This whole section of teaching is all about what goes on inside each of us and nothing to do with some end of the world ruler.

Point being this only happens when we CHOOSE it to. We have to CHOOSE to be pliable, to be mold-able, to be willing to CHANGE. Remember that CHANGE is something different than what you are thinking or doing now.

NO AMOUNT OF BELIEF

No amount of belief can make something a fact James Randi

I think it would be helpful if I explained what being Christian means to me, as I sense some are feeling quite irritated with the way I am using this term.

Christianity to me is believing in some basic factors, such as, you are a sinner forever and are saved by the grace of god through the blood of Jesus Christ; the devil is real and so is hell; you will obey the laws of Moses by the grace of Jesus Christ; you expect to spend eternity in heaven with all the saints and good guys, not like all the sinners who will be forever tormented day and night in hell.

You are a 'Kings Kid' meaning you deserve 'good guy' deals from any vendor.. you know, discounts on all of your stuff, cause you are special; you don't tip the waitress worth a plug nickel, even though you expect to be served as if you were the King of Spain; you see yourself as better than anyone else who is not a Christian, even though you won't admit it.

WHO GOD IS NOT

Now I know this is a generalization which is never true of all people. I am not saying you are like this, but I'll bet you know someone who is.

I have been around Christians my entire life. I know what I am talking about on this subject. I am not angry with this way of thinking, but certainly sick and tired of it.

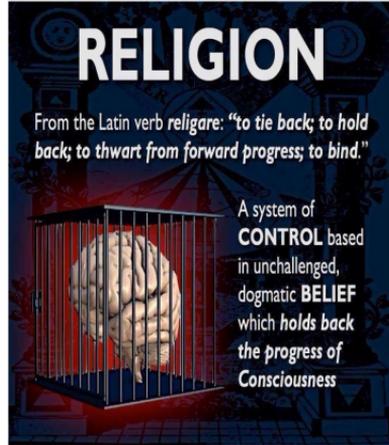

WOW! I just had a huge Epiphany !

There seems to be no simple way to explain where I am now as compared to where I was then... this feels like a pathetic attempt to draw a picture of reconciliation between being Christian and being spiritual. It just doesn't seem to work... I can't go there anymore...

I have believed in the past that I could, that being Christian and being spiritual was very possible. Problem is it feels as though it was just a smoke screen, a desire I had in my inner being, wishful thinking and dreaming... that I could hold on to my old beliefs and still embrace the new ones. In hindsight, I guess I did at first, but the more I mature, the more the old ways of thinking just won't work anymore.

It is like trying to get oil and water to stay mixed up. In no time at all, they go right back to a state of separation. Guess we need an emulsifier to achieve that, eh?

The church system has been that to seekers. It has been an emulsifier that has mixed up spirit with intellect. Causing so much confusion that no one can tell the difference. When ones intuition kicks in, clarity shows up and separation occurs. And if it continues, eventually physical separation also occurs. Oil and water don't mix.

My concepts of being a Christian were based on thinking I needed to please God in all my ways.

But that was before I understood this Human Experience is just that. It is all about the experience of being Human, of being flawed, of knowing imperfection.

WHO GOD IS NOT

Being aware of these 'shortcomings' while knowing that we are totally loved and accepted. Being flawed does not mean that you are disqualified. No one can ever be thrown away for any reason. It is impossible. Source does not make junk. Even the dark side is part of Source. Isaiah says that Source made the Smith who blows upon the coals and the Devastator to destroy. Look it up yourself.

It is not about trying to make sure we say the right words in the right order.

It isn't about doing the right things so we can guarantee spending our 'after life' in some kind of nirvana. All we have is NOW anyway, nothing else is real except right NOW.

When I came to the understanding that I could no longer be deceived, that I was 'family' forever, that my future is and always has been totally secure in every way ,it birthed a freedom in my thinking that is 'off the chart' in joy. I don't have to be concerned about 'what is going to happen when my body dies" anymore.

The real me always has been, always will be, and can never die or be injured.

We simply go from one experience to the next in this amazing continuous expansion of consciousness.

I am well aware there are those who have been reading this with great skepticism. I used to live in the same place, I get it. Especially after what I just shared with you. Fear of deception will not allow a person to explore other concepts freely.

Firstly, I am just sharing my personal experience with you.

It is my experience so it cannot be wrong, not for me anyway. I am also well aware of the confidence I have in saying what I say. I am also sure it can easily be confused with arrogance. This in turn, can make people feel skeptical and even scorn what I am saying.

Secondly, I had been in the space of traditional Christian thinking (some forty years or so) before I woke up, so I understand it very well. I also understand where I resonate now and the massive difference (light years) between the two.

WHO GOD IS NOT

If you are one of those experiencing skepticism, you only have that feeling because you have not seen it from my perspective yet. Remember what was shared earlier about the process of change? Need we go further into it again?

Even the bible says new wine cannot be put into old wineskin. New wineskin will stretch and not break as compared to the old skins who have lost their ability to stretch, to 'change'.

I used to drive a big truck for about four million miles. Saw many many things in the process of doing that. The United States is a beautiful place to see. If you have not traveled much, you might consider it.

I drove a tanker for a while (7300 gallons) during the late seventies. One of many products I hauled in those days was wine, in different stages of development.

This particular time, I was hauling 'crush', which is grapes that are picked and crushed right away.

This crush has all the seeds, skins, and small stems in it as well as the juice.

I was in the San Joaquin Valley, just south of Fresno, CA and the temperature was over 105 degree's Fahrenheit.

Being a very inquisitive person, I always looked forward to visiting the Winemaker Laboratories and learning something new. I remember asking the Winemaker about the crush, specifically regarding the level of alcohol in it.

I was informed that if the grapes were picked by eight or nine in the morning, by three o'clock there would be eleven percent alcohol in the crush. I was dumb struck in my tracks.

All the stories I had been taught by my mom and dad came back to me about the wine in the Bible not being alcoholic.

Right... sure... and what refrigeration methods did they employ to stop the fermentation process? Remember that the area in the middle east where these stories originated gets very hot on a regular basis. Then the stories about new wine skins suddenly made sense.

One cannot embrace something new without letting go of the old.

WHO GOD IS NOT

Even Paul said when he became an adult, he no longer played with childish toys. Just ponder that for a bit and read on.

There is a verse in the Old Testament that is probably, as far as I know, the most mistranslated verse in the entire bible. And if you look this up in any of the standard, approved Bible dictionaries that abound your favorite Christian bookstore, you will not find the information I am sharing here. In order to get their books approved and sold, the content must align itself with the beliefs and ideas of main line Christianity.

Just is what it is.... so here is the verse:
*For I, Jehovah, change not*** Malachi 3:6 a

If you have access to the Theological Word Study of the Old Testament, a two volume set, it adds much clarity to this verse.

** American Standard Version.

Wayne Surbrook

It says the following: I am the Lord and I am in constant change, I never repeat myself , I never do the same thing twice.

My sentence structure.

There isn't much difference between the two interpretations is there? Hard to believe there could be that much modification to the meanings of the old words. Now the amplified does shed some light on this verse:

*“For I am the Lord, I do not change [but remain faithful to My covenant with you] * Malachi 3:6 a*

This still not does not embrace change. It still sends one in the direction of believing that Source is always the same forever.

The statement about not changing brings validation to the concepts of not accepting any idea's other than those found in the old laws of Moses. And it very much fits in the sense and reason realm.

Again, easy to grasp with the mind. Spiritually has no place in this format.

WHO GOD IS NOT

I just ran across something very interesting regarding this subject.

It is a condition called Cognitive Dissonance. Here is something to contemplate...if you find you are getting quite uncomfortable as you read this, as if you should not be reading this heresy at all, you might consider what your motives are for being a Christian in the first place.

If your primary reason is to avoid going to hell or any other possible punishment now or later, it is possible you have not had a real, genuine awakening experience.

One may have done the 'repeat after me' thing , using the right words in the right order, so you might be saved... but that does not mean that you have had a real awakening.

Now don't panic... it is all good and nothing is wrong or broken. There is nothing to be saved from. Here is a way to check and see if you got the real meal deal.

Do you feel a drawing in your intuition, a pulling in your heart area to know more of Source. Do you sometimes feel that this world is not your home? If you experience these feelings, you are probably awake.

Remember we were just discussing the 'sense and reason' realm when we were talking about change? Well, let's look at that sense and reason stuff for a moment. Where is the logic in this whole idea of getting saved in the first place?

Yes, I know I did it when I was a kid, remember? If in fact, you or I are being 'saved' from anything, it would be the concepts and ideas of our natural mind. Certainly not some kiln designed to torture you forever at one degree below pure destruction, by some god that didn't call you in the first place. Oh yea and the infamous words appear before me... remember god loves you.

A true awakening causes something to change in your heart, in your intuition. There is a peace and joy that makes no sense whatever to your logical mind.

It does not depend on your outward circumstances, what you have to wear or who you are with.

The more you connect with that energy, the greater is ones sense of joy.

WHO GOD IS NOT

Fear comes from the human mind, NOT from who you really are. You are NOT the one everyone calls by a name you received as a kid.

You are not the one that looks back at you when you look in the mirror, or go to the bathroom, or take a shower.

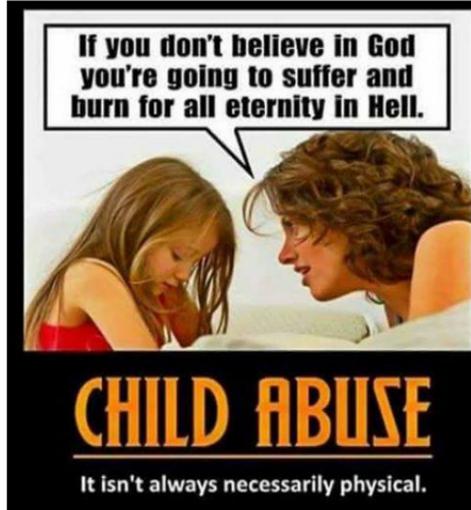

I am telling you the simple truth about who you really are. You will not get this from your church or from your pastor. Not because they are holding out on you, it is simply that they don't understand this themselves or at least not enough to explain it to you.

Besides that, I feel pretty safe in saying this understanding is not on the approved materials list for the leaders to say. They are only allowed to say and teach things 'known' to be true and valid according to traditional teaching. It just is the what it is.

I do not say this from a place of disconnection. I have had the "joy" of receiving the 'right foot' of fellowship from virtually every church I have ever been connected with.

They don't want you to 'grow up' for as soon as you do, you will understand you don't need them anymore.

The system is designed to keep you in ignorance and dependence upon them, otherwise they will no longer have a job. Most of them won't agree with me and will defend their position based on their Bible teachings. But if they would really get genuine with themselves, they would see what I am saying is true.

A common thread of thinking in the 'leadership' of almost any church is they are trying to build their church, not build the people. True leaders are few and far between and usually can't stay in the system for very long. The system will not tolerate it.

But wait, there's more!

WHO GOD IS NOT

Many people have told me they love the people of their church. It is the fellowship they really love. They are right and there is nothing wrong with that.

Many years ago, more than I want to say, I had three dreams, three nights in a row. They went like this:

First night was a dream about a skyscraper in a very large city, like New York. I was looking at it from a place of height, in other words, like the view from a drone hovering near the top of the building.

Strange thing was I could see right through the building as if the walls were not there. The President was seated at the top of the entire building at his desk. The next floor down was home to two vice presidents, and the third floor down had more people in it.

The pattern kept repeating itself for many floors down, so that it would appear to be like a pyramid in shape. Not the building, but the people, the structure of power, as to speak.

As I observed this, I noticed a few floors down from the top, deals being made to switch positions with other people.

Decisions were based on where they wished to live, as in different states and cities.

My higher self asked me what I saw and I responded that it looked like the business world to me. I was told this was the church system. I was shocked and stunned.

Night two produced an overhead view of the United States. I could see the different states and cities. As I watched, I saw lots and lots of health clubs, some bigger than others, all advertising for new members. Some were available for $19.95 a month, another for $16.95 etc.

Some bragged they had big swimming pools and great machines to tone your body. Others offered no frills workouts for $9.95 a month, no membership fees. I saw some of the managers of the same gym companies located in different states switching positions based on where they wanted to live, etc.

Some took a pay loss because their family wanted to live on the coast and so on. Again, my higher self said to me, what do you see?

I said health spa business and I was told no, that was the church system.

WHO GOD IS NOT

Night three brought forth a dream where I was observing a view of the ocean, way out to sea.

I watched a submarine that was submerged at periscope depth. It was observing a large ship that looked like a U.S. Destroyer. There was a big curl of white water from the bow of the ship as it swiftly made headway on its course. As I watched, the submarine launched two very powerful torpedoes right at the ship. I panicked and tried to get the attention of the captain to warn them of the impending doom!

All to no avail, as the captain refused to even acknowledge my existence. He knew I was there trying to get his attention, but thought I wasn't important enough to make the effort.

The captain and the crew along with the passengers were having a good time relaxing and enjoying the ride.

I woke up and ask what that meant. I was told the ship represented the Christian Church System and the captain was the clergy.

I was told that the church system was lulled into complacency by the easy life. The clergy were as ignorant as the church was about the reality of life. Totally unaware of the impending danger of the torpedoes.

During this period of time, I was at a small meeting and we were meditating/praying. I had a vision as follows:

I found myself in a crowded mall, very busy, full of bustling people, hurrying along on their shopping adventures. I was aware of every one's thoughts, all at the same time, with no effort at all. I had no problem in being able to separate one person's thoughts from another.

I walked around the mall for a bit, just observing everyone ,when I saw a store front that was closed up. There was paper on the windows so that you could not see inside.

The thing that got my attention was the paper on the windows looked really old, kind of turning yellow on the edges. There was an old woman standing in the entry way, facing the storefront, and she was muttering something to herself I could not make out.

WHO GOD IS NOT

I walked over to her to see if she needed anything and realized she was blind. Feeling sorry for her, I started sending some healing energy. Almost instantly, she let out a scream, which really surprised me. The shock of her response brought me out of the vision.

I ask my intuition what this was all about. I was told the closed up storefront represented the church system and the old blind woman was the leadership.

The scream was due to the presence of negative energies (demons). To say that I was shocked would be a large understatement.

The system (Churches and the Clergy) are not about to start teaching truths that would set people free to grow up and become self sufficient. That would be self defeating.

As long as people are constantly told they are being fed 'meat' when in fact the 'food' would not even qualify as watered down milk, the clergy have very little to worry about. No one will be jumping ship today, which guarantee's their wages will continue and the system will survive.

Please understand I am NOT saying they are intentionally doing this.

Some of the most sincere people I have ever met are stuck in this way of thinking. The moment they see what I am saying, they will stop doing this. They truly do have a desire to help people. It is the system that is broken.

Now if you would like to see living proof of the condition mentioned above, Cognitive Dissonance, just try and talk to one of these “clergy” persons about some of these things I have mentioned. If you do, hang on to your hat, so to speak!

You will see this Cognitive Dissonance condition manifest right in front of your eyes, in living color. Perhaps it may even be embellished by a religious spirit intent on making you look evil and the clergy look good.

So lets look at one of the biggest issues with the Bible telling us the 'God' of the Bible is the 'one and only God' and the one of perfect love...right.....?

If you think you are open minded, this will test you. Even if you are not, try to let go and see this from a disconnected point of view.

WHO GOD IS NOT

Remember that I am NOT talking about the real Source Energy here, but the god of the Bible, OK?

The god that was in the garden with Adam and Eve... he places an irresistible piece of fruit right in their faces and tells them they must not eat of this. The day they do, they will be like him and know the difference between right and wrong. And of course, everyone knows that SHE is a weak vessel and is guilty of blowing it. Poor old Adam had to choose her over god because she was part of his body... right?

So now that they are in DEEP DOO DOO, you know they ask for forgiveness from this god. You and I are both human, as I am sure that they were. And I know that human nature being what it is, when they discovered that they really screwed up, they ask for forgiveness, multiple times.

Guess what? This god of “love” refused to forgive them and subjected the entire race of humans to a state of fallen grace because of that. That’s right...this little god caused the fall of the race because he refused to forgive. He never DID forgive them, at least for thousands of years.

So in the meantime, the only way to make anything acceptable to this god was to force the people to kill animals (the very best of them) and sprinkle their blood all over the peace offering given to this god. This is downright SICK! And this is LOVE? Really? If you believe that, you're programming is working well. Because to any rational thinking person, this is the lowest level of mental illness and morbidity. And all this because somebody has to pay for the 'fall'? This little god set these people up to do what they did and now he is blaming them for it? Whew....

And to top it all off, now the only workable solution to restore Adam and Eve (whom god refused to forgive) and all their offspring for ever, was to put himself into a human body, have others beat him up and kill him by torture and now it is all better?

Now you don't have to be the unwilling recipient of someone's else blunder (but you inherited it) and if you just give your sovereignty over to this god, he will 'save' your sorry butt from being tortured forever in a lake of fire... really?

WHO GOD IS NOT

You know, I believed that just like everyone else does... those of us that have been programmed to accept it that is.

And if you didn't accept this, we were taught you have a reprobate mind and are full of demons that will take you to everlasting hell fire when you die!

Oh, but wait... There is more.

A person cannot make the choice to submit to this god IF this god does not allow you to. He has to 'choose' you, otherwise you are going to hell and it is just too bad.

WOW just doesn't do it, huh?

Now the problem that most of us have at this point is trying to reconcile our experience with the revealing of these lies.

We know that since our 'born again' experience felt real and still is real to us, then how can this truth be real too? It seems as if there is a conflict here, right?

Love always takes care of its own. Love never rejects or throws away one of its own. Pure love never manipulates or controls anyone or anything.

Wayne Surbrook

The BS meter is just about pegged out.

I will finish this chapter with one more bomb that totally validates the quote at the top of this chapter.

"No amount of belief makes something a fact"

James Randi.

Religion is probably the biggest perpetrator of this.

We were taught to believe (and I am sure that it still is implied) that when Jesus was talking to the Scribes and Pharisee's and told them that their father was the Devil and was a liar and a murderer from the beginning... that he was referring to their singular personhood.

Now I am not saying that anyone actually said this in their teaching.

WHO GOD IS NOT

More teaching happens by inference than by directly saying words.

I am totally convinced that He was referring to the religion of Judaism when he said that. That would mean that he was referring to the little god that gave birth to Judaism.

The god that refused to forgive Adam and Eve, that made people pour blood of innocent animals all over everything just so he would feel better about them. So Sick! And of course, it is obvious that Christianity is modified Judaism, so what's the skinny here, eh?

PLEASE do not blow a gasket. I am NOT saying this in regard to Source Energy, our beginning and our life giver.

I am talking about the faker that is written about in Genesis and the whole Bible for that matter.

You know, the one that said many things and then acted out totally different things.. Like remember that god loves you.. and then sends people to hell forever to be tortured endlessly...cause he didn't 'call them' ... wow, how did we ever miss that.

Wayne Surbrook

And look at the sinister threat to anyone who even dares to think that they might remember who they really are? (eating the fruit and knowing the difference) If you even so much as think that you could be like me, I will throw you out of relationship and make your life a living hell... any volunteers?

Remember Jesus praying in John 17 about us being one with his daddy? Are you seeing any issues with these nut-so stories yet?

I WANT YOU

TO GIVE ME A FUTURE WHERE I AM TAUGHT TO QUESTION EVERYTHING, WHERE MY FRIENDS AND I ARE NOT BRAIN WASHED AT AN EARLY AGE TO BELIEVE STONE AGE MYTHS. A FUTURE WHERE I AM NOT TAUGHT IT IS HONOURABLE AND BRAVE TO DIE FOR YOU BECAUSE YOU'RE TOO F...ING LAZY, BIGOTED AND SMALL MINDED TO PREFER PEACE OVER WAR AND DEATH

COGNATIVE DISONANCE

“And those who were seen dancing were thought to be insane by those who could not hear the music.”

— Friedrich Nietzsche

If you have not been raised in these concepts (the Bible believing ways), or had a genuine experience wherein you connected with Source (even if you called him god), it is probably no big deal to you. But to someone who has been or is in this space... it is MASSIVE. It has the capacity to be a 11.9 earthquake.

The usual response is denial of what is shown to them, to us. Cognitive Dissonance again... and it is very real.

The big struggle is trying to separate the energy (Source) that they/we have been connected with from the false concepts and ideas we were told were valid aspects of Source.

I was guilty of doing that very thing too. I was there, big time.

Why do you think I understand this?

I was also guilty of wanting to know Source Energy in my core being in an ever stronger and more real way. So I was looking in the places that I thought were safe. That is a big part of the scam. This has been taught for a long, long time.

Look at this from a disconnected point of observation for a moment.

You have a wonderful experience with Source. You are aware of a powerful connection to God. A preacher or some person had told you about this experience.

You felt the drawing, so you went there. You quickly realized what they had said was true. Then they tell you a lot of other things about this 'god'.

Things that they think are true. Why would you doubt them? You just had a very real experience that seemed to prove what they said was right. The logical assumption is that what they are now telling you must also be true.

I hear the question arise...How could this loving God do this to or allow someone to be sucked into these false ideas?

WHO GOD IS NOT

We are just human but we would never sit there and allow someone to say things about us that aren't true, at least if we could do something about it.

Again, Source is not human, so Source is not locked into our limited ways of thinking. Source/Universe is pure love. This love is so much more refined than our concepts of love are. We do not understand unconditional love, at least not many of us do.

My father used to say that experience was the best teacher if it didn't cost you too much. What is too much? Is shaking your entire world to the roots too much? Does it really make any difference to one's life?

Possibly not, if you are content to just get by. If you have your fire insurance already, what's the big deal? It is much easier to just keep thinking the way you have been. Your friends will still be your friends. Your church will continue to accept you and say nice things about you. What the heck, eh? Just leave well enough alone.

OK, no problem sir or ma'am. You got it.

If you are the kind of person that is curious about things, if you are always wondering 'why', if you could smell a 'rat' with all of the obvious discrepancies that we looked at...

Then perhaps just getting by is not good enough for you. We have much in common, you and I.

The following is the best description of Source that I have ever heard and not because I made it up. I heard it in my intuition. Here it is:

Unlimited Intelligence coupled with Immeasurable Power manifesting as PURE LOVE.

This whole thing we call life manifests in ways that make no sense to us IF we are still stuck in the seeing/hearing/understanding of Source in our natural mind. But if you choose to be open minded, everything can and will change.

Quantum physics says that the observer always effects the observed. It has been proven over and over again. That is why we have this truism.

WHO GOD IS NOT

If you don't like your world, change the way you think of it, and it will change. It has to.

I think it is time for some cookies! Ah, The story of the cookies is such a delightful tale. One day I was shown this concept.

A person who is a skilled Chef decides to make some chocolate chip cookies one day. So out come all of the ingredients to make them, from scratch of course. As this Chef is mixing all of the components together in a bowl, beating in the eggs, etc., there is never a moment of concern about the cookies not being chocolate chip.

It's not the first rodeo for this highly skilled Master, they've been there, done that. The oven is preheated to three hundred fifty degree's so it is ready and waiting to do it's job. The cookie sheet is lubricated so the cookie's won't stick to it and into the oven they go. (Notice I had this vision before they invented Teflon.)

My mouth is already starting to water!

As the cookies are cooking and the smell is beginning to envelope the kitchen, the Chef has no concern about the cookies failing to taste like a cookie. The chef is not having a problem with the change of shape and size since placing them in the oven. He/She knows this is part of the necessary process to change the dough into cookies. Now the cookies are ready and as they are removed from the oven, the Master Chef allows the smell to penetrate Hers/His entire being.

This triggers the expected response from the mouth. Ummm ... Good, just like He/She knew they would be. Now, just a bit of butter on the top of each one and Wha Lah, Perfect Chocolate Chip Cookies!

Notice the process of alchemy required a lot of heat and mostly happened in the dark? Are all the cookies shaped the same? Are they all in the same space on the cookie sheet? Do you think the Chef was concerned, even for a moment, that the cookies would taste like peanut butter instead of chocolate chip? You are right, of course not.

Are you beginning to see the parable here?

WHO GOD IS NOT

Because Source knows that each of us has a deposit of themselves in us, they know we cannot fail. They know missing the mark is not possible anymore than they can fall short of what they have intended. Making a mistake is part of our learning.

They also know we will always choose the higher road in the end.. even if it takes thousands of generations to do it. And because of this confidence and the love they have for us, they have chosen to NOT interfere in our human experience.

Help is available as long as it doesn't interrupt our learning process. And then only when we ask for it.

So a logical question then is if we ask not to be deceived, then we won't be, right? well... not so fast!

You must understand some simple but very important things about being human. We have been designed to learn by making mistakes. Mistakes are not wrong. They are just part of the learning process. We don't know what we want until we figure out what it is that we don't want.

If we keep making the same mistakes over and over again, we might want to figure out how to stop the loop from happening again. And since we can't get it wrong anyway, what is this thing we called deception?

We are here to experience limitation, to experience being human. We have the freedom to travel the universes in particle or wave form, knowing that Source is right there with us all the time.

Another important part of this equation is our conditioning. We are taught in a number of ways that we need to make goals and then shoot for them. This is good! Short term and long term goals are important and helpful in attaining our desires in life.

Likewise, the system has taught us that our goal is to survive until we are defeated by our last enemy, death.

WHO GOD IS NOT

Then we can be with the angels in the great bye and bye and worship our Lord and Savior forever... oh yea, and live in a city of gold! And that which we crave the most (MONEY) will be so plentiful that we get to walk on it every day, forever. WOW!

The idea that I am presenting to you is very foreign to that concept. I am trying to show you that Source see's things very different from the way that we have been taught.

Repeating myself, this 'life' is all about the experience of being human, of living in a place of limitation and separation, concepts that we could not possibly have in our natural place of existence. It even includes dying, something that simply cannot happen to beings that have no limitation and never cease to be.

This is like being in a play.

Now I just gave you a clue how to fix this problem if you are having one.. of course if you do, the likelihood that you are still here reading this is slim to none. You would already have thrown this down and denounced it as pure lies and blasphemous material.

So if you are still here... just stop trying to know God in your core being and be content to just get by, like all the other church goers seem to be. You will be just fine...or at least you will think that you are, and if you think you are, that is all that matters, right?

As a matter of fact, that is true. What? Are you kidding me? No, actually, I am not. Two verses come to mind. One is “to one it is sin, to another it is not” and the other, “as a man believes, so is he”.

So if this is true, what is all of this controversy about? Not much really... except in the mind of the person that is having the conflict. Yes, that is right...

How you think really does make a difference! But not in the way that we thought.

The old way is to continue to buy into the sinner mentality that can never really measure up, at least not a long as you are in a physical body. The other is to realize and accept that fact there is nothing that needs to be fixed in order to be complete in every way. We only have to change our minds about being in that trap.

WHO GOD IS NOT

To accept the fact that we already are a completed being , we just need to appropriate this into our lives, to remember.

When I was in my late twenties, married with a young daughter, I found myself really desiring to have a much deeper relationship with Source.

I remember thinking about this and realized I had a good relationship with the Father and the Son, but didn't really have much of a personal relationship with the Holy Spirit. So I told the Holy Spirit I wanted Him (yes, I thought of them as him in those days) to do his job and teach me all truth.

IF you are one who likes things nice and safe, be careful what you ask for. My whole world got turned upside down or was it really right side up?

It was in this time period I ran across a series of books (five, I believe) by a guy named Henry Daniel Voss, who has long since passed away. The particular book that started this awakening (seemed like chaos, at the time) was called Jesus Christ, one hundred percent man of faith.

It proceeded to show Jesus was just like you and I in every way and it used scripture to prove it. Oh my god, I was stunned, shocked, dismayed, horrified, etc. I had been programmed to believe that Jesus was God. I still remember that day clearly. I was sitting on the floor in my bedroom, crying my eyes out, totally convinced I had gone over the edge.

I even heard religious spirits telling me I had committed the unpardonable sin. I was weeping uncontrollably, sobbing my eyes out.

My higher self said to me..."So you want to know all truth, do you? The first little thing I show you and you can't even handle that...how can you expect to handle all truth?"

I was STUNNED and SHOCKED! I stopped bawling like a child and sucked it up immediately. I knew what I was hearing was truth. It resonated throughout my entire being. What was I to do?

I had no choice, at least in my way of thinking. Onward and upward, it's a no brainer. I am a life long student, in search of All That Is.

WHO GOD IS NOT

The search will end with first hand knowledge IN this lifetime. I know that.. I have seen it and felt it in vision, I experienced it as I watched it. Of course the end is only a new beginning. And the beat goes on...

Why do you think I speak with such conviction that I am right? I am not guessing about what I am sharing. It is a living fact in my life. The real meal deal.

Now we have another problem. If Jesus was totally a human and not half god and half man, that makes Him just like us... and if that is true, then we too, can be just like Him.

Oh no, now what? I didn't have an excuse anymore for not trying to get it together. I used the excuse that I was only a human after all and what was I supposed to do?

I was subject to sin and all of the other excuses they taught me.. more by implication then actual direct teaching, but never the less, I learned it. There went my cop out.

Brings me to another experience I had along the same lines. I was being drawn by Source to go deeper into the 'things of God' and I found myself balking, holding back, not wanting to jump over the edge.

This was about the same time Jim Jones had gone over the edge and talked nine hundred well meaning people into drinking cool aid and heading off to Nirvana with him. Jimmy Swaggart had also just been caught (the first time) in some major sexual misconduct issues and Jim Baker had just been busted for the Christian Community Scam. I remember telling Source I thought I'd just pass on this one. After all, I knew I was going to heaven and what else did I need, right?

If I just stayed on the straight and narrow, I would be just fine.

I was shown where the Bible says if we ask anything according to His will, we have what we ask, and another place where it says that God desires that no man should perish.

If you want to know where those verses are, time to learn. Try looking them up yourself. It is really good practice for you. Gotta start somewhere, right?

Having been shown these verses, I took it to mean if I went for it, I would be just fine. And it has been shown to be true over and over again.

WHO GOD IS NOT

I also remember telling God (Source) I was going to go for it with all I had but I had better not ever see Him setting on a throne telling me that I missed the mark! And I gave Him the right to cut off my legs if I was getting off the path. It was His responsibility to make sure that I didn't. Gutsy, eh? Not really, either you trust or you don't.

I have never looked back since. Has it always been easy? NO way, Jose! I know that I have gone through things that I probably didn't need to IF I had listened to the nudging in my inner being.

But then again, I learned first hand many lessons that I might not have gotten so well had I not gone there in the first place.

Like the day I saw the truth regarding the whole idea of the "fall of man" was amazing. The story says they fell from the good graces of some god because they disobeyed.

Like the idea that one needs to be saved because we have inherited sin from some six thousand years ago is just a story that someone made up and sold to all of us.

Like the solution to this 'fall' was to be 'saved' by a person that 'died' for you a horrible death, to pacify a very pissed off god so that you could be happy and live a life of Nirvana in the here after.

Like If you know the truth, the truth will set you free. This truth is there never was a problem, no separation between Source and You, nothing was ever wrong! The truth is you are not a human being trying to be spiritual. I know I said this already, but some things bear repeating. You (we) are a spiritual being having a human experience, and we can't get it wrong

What a difference in thinking and feeling. WOW! Truly that is what is meant by being set free from the law of sin and death.

Now think about this, meditate on this, if you want to, if you can.

Please don't be hard on yourself if you don't easily grasp these concepts. It took me years and years to get where I am now. If only someone would have shared these truths with me then ...

BLISSFUL MOMENTS

By finding your beginning, you shall know your end. Don Udseth

Are you questioning what I have been saying? Are you pondering these things? I hope so. Please please question, question, question... everything... and yet again and again... Winners never quit and quitters never win. One of the things that got us so buried in the traditional teachings and interpretations is NOT questioning. We were like gullible little birdies... feed me... feed me... teach me, oh wise one. And wanting to please the adult mentors, we stopped questioning.

If I ever raise another kid, I will do some things really differently. I will not give them very many answers. I will answer questions with more questions. I will let them figure it out for themselves. What does it hurt? They just might find a new way to do it that none of us old fogies ever thought of before.

We must dump these old paradigms of fear that are restricting us from thinking freely.

My youngest grandson, at about four years of age, started going with me when I hauled cars long distance. I remember once when he was about 7 or so, he wanted to get up on the upper deck and tie down the cars. We were using wheel straps to do so. Hooks on two ends and a ratchet strap with a hook to tighten it down.

He says, “Hey grampa, how do I do this?” I simply held it up and said one end hooks behind the tire, the other end hooks in front of the tire and the long end hooks much further ahead of that. I showed him how the ratchet part worked and said there you go.

He looked at me with kinda of a pained look, as if he didn't know what to do. I told him to go and figure it out for yourself. I told him he would and not to worry about making a mistake, I would double check what he did.

He broke into a grin and took off. It was so cool! He did wonderfully and loved every minute of it. He was free to experiment and to make a mistake. He was thinking freely and he excelled in that moment of bliss.

Most of us rarely have these Blissful moments. Why have we have lost this 'bliss'?

It is the pure joy of discovering. Discovering a truth for ourselves.

Let's say you are in a word study class dealing with some ancient writings. Someone teaches you some hidden meaning that resonates with you. This is really cool but if you will be honest and truthful in your inner being, you will find you actually kinda resent them a bit. For telling you this instead of letting you discover it for yourself. Perhaps it would have been better to point you to the answer rather than telling it to you.

If you find a truth out for yourself, if you get to, it becomes so real to you that it is now part of who you are. No one can ever take it from you with some intellectual argument... ever. This is part of the joy of finding the truths for yourself.

When I discovered this reality, I started answering questions with questions as much as possible. Some people really resented this, but sometimes when I would explain why I did it, they would understand.

Others would not... there are many bottom feeders out there that don't want to do any work for what they get. They deserve the best and they should not have to lift a finger to get it. Just ask them.

After all, you are being paid a wage to teach me. Really? I don't think so. So why am I giving you answers now? The 'answers' that I am sharing are not really answers, they are only pointers. They only point to further truths and understandings. Don't take my word for any of this, search it out for yourself. Show me I am wrong, if you dare.

This is NOT a head learning experience, that is IF you wish to grow spiritually. There is no degree you will earn for spending hours and hours meditating. No PHD's for searching old writings for even a fragment of truth that rings true to you, that resonates in your core being.

Nobody will stand up in the local cafe and tell everyone you were up in the middle of the night listening to the wind blow and the waves gently breaking against the rocks. That you were watching the sun come up and listening to the birds sing to the sun as it brought warmth and light to the darkness.

It is not a path of recognition, it is about discovery. Recognition is all about ego.

How much time do you spend just thinking about life, pondering the universes? Who's got time to do that, right? Oh, excuse me... I am sorry...

I didn't realize I was disturbing your favorite Television show. I'll just leave quietly now...

Have you ever tried to shut off that damn boob tube and your bloody computer and just be? One of the reasons it is so hard to connect these daze is we are bombarded with RF (radio frequency) constantly! Cell phones, WiFi, remote controls, etc. are everywhere.

If you think it does not affect you... well, your programming is working good.

I am not advocating a change to being a hermit. I am suggesting making time to be alone... I mean alone, with no other stuff going on. ALONE, with just you and Source or your higher self or nature. If you choose to try this, you will be amazed... at least, I was.

One time I was thinking to myself that I had not really grounded in quite a while, meaning putting my bare feet into Mother Earth. At that point in my life, being transgendered in my mind, I still got pedicures and manicures. I always had my toe nails painted a nice girly color. That made it rather difficult to take off my shoes and socks in public because of the ridicule from the 'drones', the sleep walkers.

One evening, after dark, I decided to go for it. As I stepped into the grass and felt the wonderful moist cool grass on my feet and between my toes, Mother spoke to me... yes, I said Mother. No, I am not talking about my genetic mother, she had already crossed over.

I am talking about Mother Earth. Even the bible says that if you want to see God, just look at Nature. I could spend quite a while showing you many references to Her in the bible, but I choose not to. I hope someday you get to have a conversation with Her. It is just as amazing as talking to Source... because it is Source! Oh, you don't buy the female part of Source? You gotta get out more! Where have you been hiding? Turn off that blasted Boob Tube and Computer! LIFE is waiting for you to join in !

So she says to me, “you know, trying to connect with Me with your shoes on is like trying to have sex with someone else's organs”. Do I hear a WOW? To me, She is always so matter of fact and so sweet at the same time. But I got it, loud and clear.

As I have said numerous times already, this is a personal journey about YOU and Source. Source is one with your higher self, the real YOU. When you pray, you are connecting with the part of you that is occupied by the real YOU. This is where your spirit resides, not your natural mind. Where you and Source are so co-mingled it is impossible to tell where one starts and ends and the other begins and stops.

You are the only one that can make this experience happen. It works because you choose to make it work.

What I mean is you are the only one that can put yourself in the position to connect to and commune with ALL THAT IS. It is totally an INSIDE JOB!

The Kingdom of God is within you. Remember the verse? Within you! NOT out there somewhere in the great by and by.

It is NOT some constellation in the stars somewhere.

What does the verse mean that says you must be born again to enter the kingdom of God?

Explain to me, please, how getting 'saved' from anything is going to help you go into your inner being. There is nothing to be saved from, unless it is your mind.

So the quote we used earlier, No amount of belief can make something a fact really starts coming into play here. As a man believes, so is he... is downright heavy!

If you are still trying to hang unto your old ways of thinking, this could make you a bit crazy. However, if you can let go and listen to your heart space, realizing there is no God to please or displease, there is no such thing as sin (missing the mark), that you cannot get this human experience wrong... well... then you can start to embrace the concept that Source is TOTALLY on your side. You can start to embrace the idea of being free. Really free to BE your authentic self.

So does it matter what or how you think?

How much bondage do you need to be in, in order to feel good about yourself? Do you need lots of rules and restrictions?

Or are you able to appropriate the freedom that awaits you.... to be who you really are.. a spiritual being having a human experience.. a grand human experience.

The choice is totally yours and yours only. You get to chose what you want to experience. What do you want out of life?

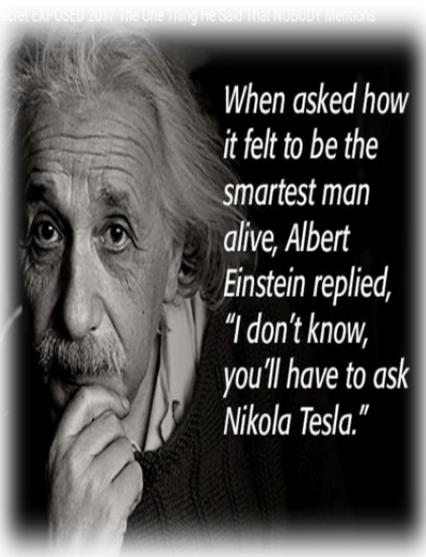

*If you know your beginning,
you will know your end.*

By golly, I think Don got it right... We came from Source and are returning to Source.

In closing, most of us have idolized or at least respected the wisest people we have known. I have put Nikola Tesla and Albert Einstein in this category. Let's take a quick look at what these two have said about the mind and the intuition, shall we?

Einstein: “Intelligence is useless when it comes to inventions. There is a leap of consciousness - you can call it intuition or something else - and the decision comes, you do not know how or why.”

“There is no logical way to the discovery of these elemental laws. There is only the way of intuition, which is helped by a feeling for the order lying behind the appearance.”

“I believe in intuition and inspiration.”
“At times I feel certain I am right while not knowing the reason.”

Nikola Tesla: “But instinct is something which transcends knowledge. We have, undoubtedly, certain finer fibers that enable us to perceive truths when logical deduction, or any other willful effort of the brain, is futile.”

“Knowledge comes from space; our vision is its most perfect set. We have two eyes: the earthly and the spiritual. It is recommended that we become one eye. Universe is alive in all its manifestations, like a thinking animal. Stone is a thinking and sentient being, such as plant, beast and a man. A star that shines asked to be looked at, and if we were not sizable and self-absorbed, we would understand its language and message. His breathing, his eyes and ears must comply with the breathing, eyes and ears of the Universe.”

It would seem to me if the two brightest minds of the last century and possibly of all time both agree we should listen to our intuitions over our natural minds input, we might be wise to listen. What do you think?

Thank you for joining me as we rode along, partner. Are there any cows left in yer herd? I pray that I have stirred you to think, to question, to ask and keep on asking, why why why and what what what and most of all, more than anything else, I hope that I have stirred a hunger in you that cannot be quenched, ever...

The thirst for more, always more, of SOURCE in your world. So much so that when I see you in person, I will not be able to tell where you stop and Source starts.

“What matters is to live in the present, live now, for every moment is now. It is your thoughts and acts of the moment that create your future. The outline of your future path already exists, for you created its pattern by your past.”
Sai Baba

And as Mahatma Ghandhi said to Albert Einstein, Namastae' which means, “I honor the place in you where the entire universe resides. I honor the place in you of light, love, truth, peace and wisdom. I honor the place in you where, when you are in that place, and I am in that place, there is only one of us.”
