

THE ANSWER

BY: BRAD CULLEN - JANUARY 6, 2004

The following is an exact copy of an e-mail exchange between a lady in the States and me. I have deleted her name to protect her privacy – but feel strongly “nudged” to share this with you all.

Why am I amazed? I shouldn't be surely! I have been praying about/for you and I asked, "Why" because I have the utter faith that you are so close. Yet I have this inner knowing that you are not supposed to "ride" on my faith. Sometimes that is the case as it was recently with a man on a dialysis machine -- kidney failure and a candidate for a kidney transplant. Instead God gave him new kidneys! I knew "my" faith had to carry him through. I cannot explain it _____, but that's just how it works sometimes. Why I am amazed is that I was given the answer BEFORE you wrote the question -- I was asking the same question as you and apparently at the same time.

Back to your situation -- here is what I received to my "Why?"

You need to STOP speaking what you don't want (example, you said: "Physically it does not stop...it continues to get worse." Begin this day speaking what you want as if it already exists, because it does -- you are going to begin speaking God's will into existence on this physical plane. I will speak it with you in full agreement wanting only God's perfect will.

The mental health profession refers to this as "denial" and the word has caught on in our culture generally. What God is showing me for you is that yes, it is denial. You are denying permission that you have been giving by speaking wrongly. Denial is exactly what you need to do and here's how. Stop any and all words and thoughts such as "it is getting worse." Say NO! Say "no" to all such thoughts and words. They are lies of enemy agents. Stop speaking their will and speak only God's will.

Speak the following over and over and over again:

I AM A CHILD OF THE LIVING GOD. THE BODY I OCCUPY IS IN PERFECT HEALTH!
I AM A CHILD OF THE LIVING GOD. THE BODY I OCCUPY IS IN PERFECT HEALTH!
I AM A CHILD OF THE LIVING GOD. THE BODY I OCCUPY IS IN PERFECT HEALTH!
I AM A CHILD OF THE LIVING GOD. THE BODY I OCCUPY IS IN PERFECT HEALTH!
I AM A CHILD OF THE LIVING GOD. THE BODY I OCCUPY IS IN PERFECT HEALTH!
I AM A CHILD OF THE LIVING GOD. THE BODY I OCCUPY IS IN PERFECT HEALTH!
I AM A CHILD OF THE LIVING GOD. THE BODY I OCCUPY IS IN PERFECT HEALTH!
I AM A CHILD OF THE LIVING GOD. THE BODY I OCCUPY IS IN PERFECT HEALTH!

Read Mark 11:24 - 26 with the understanding that what Jesus was saying in the original language (so sadly diluted by King James translators and carried over by the religious traditions the KJV engendered into other "modern" translations)

"Whatever you aiteo" (this word pronounced ah-ee-tay-oh is the exact same word used today in financial instruments in Greece called demand notes. The word literally means "due on demand," that is, the lender can demand payment at any time and that the payment is due upon that demand, period), or foreclosure or other remedy spelled out in the document will take place. Aiteo is a powerful word -- and can be correctly translated, in context, as you can demand it because God has said that it is due! Do you see how diluted the passage becomes with the word "ask?"

Let's start over. "Whatever things you demand when you speak into the unseen realm of the spirit, believe that YOU HAVE ALREADY RECEIVED THEM" (an absolutely correct translation into English, _____). Now let's back up a bit: The word in the original language, translated as "believe," actually means to image, or see a picture of it in your mind. Do you see it? Jesus is saying that _____ will have perfect health if she speaks AND SEES AS ALREADY ACCOMPLISHED the body you occupy as complete, perfect and healthy. See it -- in our American culture we say, "seeing is believing" meaning that if we see it already in existence with our physical eyes, THEN we'll believe it. What Jesus is saying (I realize I am being redundant here), If you "see" it in your mind and hold onto that picture while speaking authoritatively toward God you will have what you speak and see!

So many people have difficulty with the thought of demanding anything from God. That's not what Jesus is saying here -- God has already promised that you can have what you want -- you are demanding that what is promised -- is released to you. God isn't holding it back -- agents of the enemy are holding it back -- and using your own mind and tongue to help them accomplish the enemy's goal, which Jesus said is to kill and destroy us.

One other important word translated as "doubt," back at the tail end of verse 23 -- the word in the original is pronounced something like dia-kreenos. The word literally means divided in thought or divided by opposing spirits. Jesus' half brother James uses the very same word in his instructions about how to pray for wisdom -- translated again as "doubt" but he comes back and says a doubting man is double minded and cannot expect to get anything from God. Doubting is a normal condition of the human being. Neither Jesus nor James was saying doubt. They were both saying not to allow negating thoughts or words to make you waver from what you are speaking. Do you see this?

Lastly, in verses 25 and 26 (back in Mark 11 again) is the caveat with which Jesus ends the discourse about getting and using faith. Basically, if you are harboring, anger, bitterness or criticism against anyone you cannot expect to get anywhere by praying this way. Unfortunately the word "forgive" in today's vernacular doesn't get across the meaning of the two words in the original from which the KJV translators rendered "forgive."

One of the words in the original means to let go of or release -- the other word means to send away violently. This ties the whole thing back to verse 23. "Whoever speaks emphatically or commands a spiritual obstacle while picturing in his mind lifting that obstacle (Jesus used the metaphor "mountain") over his head and casting it violently down into the sea and continues speaking it and casting it down in his mind UNTIL it is no longer in the way - it will be done!

Since I am on a roll here, and I know this is for you, let's go back just a bit further to verse 22. Translated again by KJV and kept in modern translations because of tradition -- "Have faith in God." The original language clearly states, "Have the faith OF God." To prove this obtain a reliable English-Greek Interlinear New Testament and look up this passage. It is a mind blower!

In context Jesus was saying, "have the same faith that you saw me use" (to kill a fig tree, no less). Peter had just said "Wow, Lord, look at the fig tree you cursed yesterday -- it has withered and died from the roots to the top. Jesus response to Peter was, "get the same faith you saw me use to do this and you will be able to do it also." Then he goes on to explain how to get it -- by speaking and picturing in your mind what it is you desire and remembering that you must release and send away any negative feelings about others or this kind of faith simply won't work.

Well, _____, you asked. Put it to work and I will join you. You ARE free. Speak it, see it. You'll know you have the right picture in your mind when it causes you to feel joy. Express your joy in giving thanks to the God of the universe!

Hi Brad...yes it is me again. Your last article "Perspective" is the reason for this email. As I was reading and got to the part of walking around in condemnation isn't God's way. Neither is being in bondage to stuff that keeps us from living life to the fullest.... including disease, pain and suffering. You know what my situation is. Physically it does not stop...it continues to get worse. (I personally can't believe it can get any worse. But, it does.) So, my question for you is why can't I shake this thing? I know that enormous change has happened in my life, all for the better. I have done as you suggested and have directed my anger towards the enemy. I have continually called on the demons that are behind the cancer, pain, stench/rot, anger, disbelief, doubt, etc. With the authority given to me by my Father. I appreciated your article "Border guards." That was very interesting to me and I have tried to implement that into my life as best as possible. (I need a watch with a hourly beeper.) I really wish I had a better understanding on how all that works. More articles in that line would be a good thing.

So, what do you think? Is there anything about me that you can pick up on that I need to change or do differently? I know that how my life is now is not what God wants for me, yet how do I get out of the enemy's clutches.... why won't this body turn around and start healing? Thank you.
