

MANY PATHS

There are as many paths leading back home as there are souls. Each and everyone has a path that they and no other will return on. That path is created by them, with assistance from their I AM consciousness, the Creative Intelligence we know as God. This source energy Intelligence is Infinite. It has no beginning or ending and consequently neither have I. This Intelligence by nature is also creative. You and I, and all of creation are an extension of this Infinite Intelligence who has "creative ability" and cannot ever stop creating.

There is nothing in existence that is not conscious on some level in its own way. Nothing that is a part of Creation can ever be unconscious, because Consciousness is what God is. As God thinks through us as us, creation is ever coming into new forms. There is a saying which goes... whatever happens in the macrocosm also happens in the microcosm. This is true, because these two are in reality One! There never was or will there ever be a distinction between the Creator and its creation in absolute truth.

It terms of the three dimensional mind or ego which we all have and function with, or you might say in the relative world, God and Creation are two. That is why you find in scripture Jesus prays to the Father in some instances and at other times says things such as, "he that has seen me, has seen the Father." Each of us in our own time will come to the place on our path where our world that we have created explodes with the blinding light of remembrance. The reason we create the Hell we do, is because we have forgotten who we are and therefore create by default. In that new day we shall realize that there is nothing and no one in existence but the One that I am, and everything that my eyes see and all that I encounter are extensions of the I that I am.

When this even begins to happen to me, I will experience a far greater love, compassion, and understanding than I've ever experienced before for all of creation. The truth, as it solidifies and becomes incorporated in my humanity will always without exception result in having more love for all men. This just means that, who I am, and have been throughout all eternity is beginning to surface and take the place my ego has held for so long.

Then forgiving becomes easier and easier because the single eye knows and understands, and with understanding comes the knowledge that there is nothing to forgive. This is because the most serious mistake I can make is to hurt another by word or deed and I do this only as a lack of vision to see as God sees. When I and the Father become One in experience and not only in teaching and doctrine, when I merge into One with God in experience as a result of the hell I've created for myself, I will then know that I live in a perfect universe and everything is exactly as it's designed to be

FORGIVING IS NOT FORGETTING, IT'S UNDERSTANDING.
